President Leads Nation In Celebrating Christmas

ROOSEVELT LIGHTS TREE IN CAPITAL

Makes Plea That Spirit of Neighborly Love Continue in Years to Come

GUESTS ARE RECEIVED

Senator King of Utah Pays Tribute to Chief Executive and Real Leader

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(UP)—A plea that the spirit of neighborly love, fostered by the depression, be continued in years to come was made by President Roosevelt last night as he led the nation in celebrating the coming of Christmas.

Near the towering Washington monument, erected by a grateful nation in memory of its first president, Mr. Roosevelt lighted the capital's community Christmas tree and expressed his gratitude to the thousands who have sent him greetings.

"For me and for my family," he said, "it is the happiest of Christmases. To more and more of us, the words 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself' have taken on a new meaning that is showing itself and proving itself in our purposes and daily lives.

"May the practice of that high ideal grow in us all in the years to come."

Thousands had gathered at the site of the Christmas tree as two White House limousines bearing the President and his party arrived.

With the Chief Executive were his wife; his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt; his daughter, Mrs. Anna Dall, and her two children, "Sisite" and "Breaks Precedent."

Earlier in the day the President had smashed a White House precedent by playing host and Santa Claus to members of the White House police force, garage employees and their families.

Most of them have seen presidents come and go in their years

NOTED GUNMAN SHOT IN DETROIT HOLDUP

DETROIT, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Physicians at receiving hospital Sunday held out a fighting chance for the recovery of Ted Patterson, wanted in Iowa and Illinois on bank robbery and kidnaping charges, who was shot in an attempted hold-up here Saturday night.

Patterson, alias Ted Pollock, was identified by police through finger prints as the man wanted in Des Moines for participating in the Buena state bank robbery there last June.

He also had been sentenced at Springfield, Ill., on a bank robbery charge but had been free under bond pending a new trial. Prior to the second scheduled trial he was arrested on a kidnaping conspiracy charge at Chicago and turned over to Rock Island, Ill., authorities.

(From Florian's etching of Henri Lerolle's "Arrival of the Shepherds.")

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them and said . . . Behold, I bring you tidings of great joy, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior. And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. And . . . the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which has come to pass . . . And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. —St. Luke 11:8-16.

'Machine Gun' Fails to Keep Promise

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 25.—(UP)—George Kelly, the boastful bandit known to his pals as "Machine Gun" and to scornful fellow convicts as "Blabbermouth," failed last night to make good his bragging.

When sentenced to life imprisonment for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Kelly boasted he would "beat out by Christmas" Christmas eve, however, found him in solitary confinement at the federal prison here, with nothing to do but think about freedom that was far away.

ADMIRAL BYRD HEADS VESSEL INTO BLIZZARD

A BOARD S. S. Jacob Ruppert, with Byrd Expedition, Off Antarctica, Dec. 25.—(By Mackay Radio)—(UP)—Nudging her way at slow speed through the ice pack the S. S. Jacob Ruppert, flagship of the second polar expedition of Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd moved through blizzards toward the south today.

The admiral and all of his crew spent Christmas Eve in happy fashion, with plenty of good cheer and wireless news from the civilian world to keep them in touch with the holiday spirit back home.

Byrd announced that he planned to seek another record for the southernmost latitude reached by boats. He intends, as soon as the fog and snow lift, to force the ship into the pack in the vicinity of the 143rd meridian and try to beat his record, set at the 150th meridian recently—a record which broke that had stood for years.

He hopes to open the mystery of the "Pacific Guardant," and the plan is to drive the vessel south as far as her engines and hull can overcome the resistance of the pack. If she is blocked, Admiral Byrd plans to renew the attack by air, and his big seaplane has been thoroughly checked and overhauled in readiness for flight.

HUNDREDS ARE GIVEN FREEDOM BY PRESIDENT

Approximately 1000 Convicted Under Espionage Act Freed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Full civil rights for hundreds of persons convicted under war-time espionage and selective service acts were restored tonight as a Christmas gift by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt's decision was embodied in a proclamation. It was understood to affect approximately 1000 cases. In every instance, those involved already have completed their sentences.

"During the World War," the president wrote in an official statement, "a large number of persons were convicted under the espionage act and the selective service act of giving utterance to sentiments adverse to the prosecution of the war and to the enforcement of the draft. They have paid the penalty that the law imposed upon them. The emergency that made it necessary to punish them has long expired. Fifteen years have elapsed since the end of the war."

Joe E. Brown in 18th Wedding Anniversary

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Brown, known as Hollywood's happiest family, celebrated their 18th wedding anniversary Sunday.

Surrounded by their four children, the wide-mouthed comedian and his wife expressed frank puzzlement over the highly publicized inability of most Hollywood couples to make marriage a success.

"We've been blue and discouraged lots" of times, Brown said. "But we were never both downhearted at the same time."

EXPOSURE AND HUNGER FACED BY HUNDREDS

MISSOULA, Mont., Dec. 25.—(UP)—Exposure, hunger and thirst became new threats today to hundreds of refugees from raging floods in western Montana and northern Idaho.

Reports here said food supplies and water reservoirs were dangerously low in the towns of Saltese, Mont., Deborgia, Mont., Wallace, Idaho, and Kellogg, Idaho.

Mr. Wallace more than 1000 men worked frantically to repair flooding fields on Cataldo Flats so that planes might land there with much needed provisions.

It was understood here that in Spokane Wash., Mike Mamer, Northwest Airways pilot, awaited word from Wallace that the field had been repaired sufficiently to allow him to land.

Heavy Fog Saturday Night and Sunday Responsible for Accidents

HEAVY FOG in all parts of Orange county Saturday night and a great increase of traffic during the Christmas period caused nine traffic accidents and injuries to 12 persons Saturday and Sunday, including the injury of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Colver, 922 Orange avenue.

Three hit-and-run drivers are being sought by officers as the result of three wrecks, one of which resulted in the serious injury to a motorist near Huntington Beach.

Colver, 42, well-known employee of a Santa Ana bank, is confined in the Santa Ana Valley Hospital with a fractured hip, his wife is also in the hospital with a severely injured wrist and cuts and bruises and R. E. Chapman, 29, 2372 Riverside Drive, suffered slight injuries as the result of an accident caused by fog at 10 p. m. Saturday night. Chapman, driving on the state highway at Newport road in Tustin, failed to make

$240,000 WILL BE GIVEN NEWLYWEDS

ROME, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Ten thousand cash prizes aggregating $240,000 lire (about $240,000) were distributed to newlyweds throughout Italy yesterday, in connection with the celebration of mother's day in this country.

Three thousand of the prizes, totaling 500,000 lire, were distributed to mothers distinguished for their healthiest methods of raising children.

Storekeepers, wealthy families and public bodies donated food-stuffs, clothes, furniture and other goods to needy newlyweds. Several hundred landlords granted free or partly free rent to parents of large families, for periods ranging from six months to a year.

NEEDY PERSONS IN SANTA ANA CHEERED TODAY 300 OTHERS ARE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

More Than 600 Families in City Made Glad Due to Generous Public

As dusk fell last evening, homes were lighted with Christmas candles and colored lights. Fireplaces glowed as members of families gathered, many coming from distant places, to celebrate together the holiday with glee reunions.

The spirit of the day was inaugurated yesterday at special services in Santa Ana churches.

At least 625 families were happier today than they would have been had not thoughtful and unselfish residents of the city relieved the anxiety of parents, that there would be little of Christmas in the dinners they placed before their children.

There is little doubt but that it looked like a "Merry Christmas" for the 625 families who were delivered heaping baskets of food to assure them of a Christmas dinner. These baskets contained roasts, flour, sugar, beans, rice, hominy, tomatoes, cookies, milk, bread, butter, potatoes, apples, oranges, coffee and candy. Many also contained toys.

In addition to the many Christmas dinners served transients, the Salvation Army was responsible for the delivery of 275 baskets to needy homes. The Santa Ana Elks club sent out 150 baskets and about 200 went out from various churches of the city, according to the Rev. C. M. Aker, president of the Ministerial Union.

While unemployed associations took over the delivery of Christmas baskets to a large extent last year, this year the unemployed agencies here acted as a clearing house, furnishing names of families known to be needy and trying to avoid duplication of efforts.

If there is any food left over after a check is made of deliveries, it will be given to unemployed organizations, the Rev. Mr. Aker said. He pointed out that the Ministerial Union realizes that unemployed people have to eat every day of the year and not just on Christmas, and that is the reason the union has been buying meat for the unemployed during the year. The union also allowed unemployed groups a certain amount each month for the purchase of medicine.

Heavy fog Saturday night and Sunday responsible for accidents

MIDWEST STATES HIT BY COLD WAVE

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Dec. 25.—(UP)—Uncharted on the weather map, a cold wave swept down out of the north Sunday on eastern South Dakota, southwestern Minnesota, northeast Nebraska and northwest Iowa.

Tumbling temperatures fell from 42 degrees yesterday afternoon to 2 degrees below zero this morning.

A 40-mile an hour wind, carrying flurries of snow, emphasized the changed temperature.

SANTA WILL RIDE BIG RED AIRPLANE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—(UP)—For the third time in as many years, Santa Claus will ride a big red airliner across windswept Escondido desert, in Southern Utah, today to bring Christmas to Mrs. Alta Bonner and her nine children.

Since her husband died three years ago, Mrs. Bonner and her family have cared for an isolated emergency landing field in the bleak desert. Almost the only dwellers in an area of 300 square miles, their chief contact with the outside world is through the western airliners as they roar overhead.

So Pilots George Sherwood and Clarence Robey on today's regular Los Angeles-Salt Lake run will circle the Bonner house and two silk parachutes laden with Christmas cheer will float down.

The sacks are filled by a fund provided by the Western Air pilots.

THREE GUESSES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(UP)—The nation's battle with the depression has established a new order which will affect the entire social and economic system of America for all time, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said tonight.

In a brief Christmas statement reviewing the new industrial status brought about by the NRA, Johnson said that a new understanding had been established between the government and the people. A closer and more sympathetic relationship now exists between the employees and employer, he said. He added that "1933 is the year in which developments have given conclusive evidence that democracy under the leadership of a president embodying the essence of democracy in its highest sense, has reached a pinnacle of the entire civilized world, and which will bring lasting contentment to his people."

sons who were convicted of such war-time offenses and who have complied with the sentences imposed on them. The effect of this proclamation is to restore to such persons their full civil rights."

Unofficial quarters pointed out that the proclamation does not apply to America's most celebrated draft-dodger, Grover Cleveland Bergdolt, a fugitive in Germany.

"The benefit of the proclamation," the president said, "extends to all persons who were convicted of violations of Section 3 Title 1 of the espionage act or of a conspiracy to violate the same; or of a conspiracy to violate Section 5 of the selective service act; provided that they carried out the sentences which the courts inflicted.

"The former statute relates to the publication of seditious literature and the making of seditious speeches; the latter provision covers conspiracy to obstruct or interfere with the enforcement of the draft.

"The proclamation expressly provides that the pardon does not extend to any other offenses than those specifically enumerated."

Issuance of the proclamation was the last official act of Mr. Roosevelt before he settled back to enjoy the Christmas holidays with members of his family.

In connection with the pardons for war-time offenses it was recalled that in the many cases not covered by the proclamation, amnesty had been granted by the late President Harding, who was called on to review them soon after he entered office.

The late Eugene Debs, several times Socialist party nominee for the presidency, was one of those pardoned by Mr. Harding.

a turn on the road and crashed into a tree, according to reports. Mrs. Chapman escaped injury.

Driver Sought

A hit-and-run driver who speeded away after a crash at Euclid avenue and Lincoln avenue at 10 p.m. Saturday night is being sought by police after reports of the accident were made by George H. Bulen, 38, Long Beach. Bulen said he was driving on Lincoln avenue when his car and the other machine collided. Bulen received slight injuries.

Another hit-and-run driver failed to stop after crashing into the large sedan of Oscar R. Howard Los Angeles, driven by his chauffeur, Howard Arthur, 34, Los Angeles.

Howard and Arthur told California highway patrolmen that a car made a U turn on Talbert road as Arthur passed a parked truck. The cars crashed and Howard was shaken up and bruised. The accident occurred Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

Grant H. Flint, believed to be a resident of Los Angeles, received serious injuries at 5 p.m. Saturday in a peculiar accident on the coast highway near the Bolsa Chico Gun club. He had been involved in a collision with another car and was talking to the second driver when a third car approached at a high rate of speed and knocked him to the pavement.

Flint was rushed to Huntington Beach for medical treatment and later removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where he is still confined.

Fog Responsible

Heavy fog was blamed for a wreck at 6:30 a.m. Saturday on the Coast highway in Newport Beach when cars driven by Harold W. Arnold, 30, 402 Huntingdon avenue, Huntington Beach, and H. A. Sodini, 30, Los Angeles, collided.

Sodini was injured but did not require medical treatment. He was driving a heavy sedan which was struck broadside by the small car of Arnold.

No one was hurt in an accident at 6:45 last night at Sixth and Broadway when cars driven by Frank E. Snyder, Box 253, Garden Grove, and M. C. Hall, 151 South Parton street, collided.

Mrs. E. V. Bender and her children, Ralph Bender and Thelma Bender, were taken to the Orange County hospital for medical treatment yesterday after an accident at West First street and Sullivan street. According to reports, a car driven by Mrs. Bender and a machine driven by Ross Robles, 2224 West Second street, collided. Mrs. Bender was taken to the police station after the crash and later removed to the hospital.

rails after plowing through the whole Nancy train.

The locomotive gave the impression of a twisted, debris-covered meteor.

Seek Missing

The police and railway authorities were besieged all day by hundreds of persons desperately seeking missing friends and relatives.

Theodore Mariner, United States chargé d'affaires at Paris, conveyed America's condolences to the French people through Joseph Paul-Boncour, foreign minister.

President Albert Le Brun announced he would visit the wreck this morning. All France was plunged in gloom.

Daubigny, the engineer, in a statement to the United Press, said:

"We passed two open signals when suddenly I saw the red tail lights of the Nancy train, not 60 feet ahead of us. I reversed the engine, but nothing could halt us in such a short distance. We crashed with a terrific impact, completely destroying the rear coaches of the other train."

Responding to questions, Daubigny blamed faulty signals for the wreck. He said a torpedo which should have exploded under his engine as a signal another train was in the block, exploded under the last coach of his train.

Empty Pockets

To facilitate identification, the pockets of the dead were emptied, and their possessions and papers laid on top of the bodies in rows at the station. Nuns knelt in prayer as relatives attempted to recognize the mutilated forms.

A number of soldiers were among the killed. The army authorities, co-operating in rescue work, removed the bodies of the soldiers and prepared to place them in white wooden coffins, as in wartime, for burial.

One body was identified as Jean Paul Morel, former under secretary of state for budget in the Herriot cabinet of 1926, when the franc collapsed. Other casualties included Deputy Victor Schleiter and the mayor of Verdun. In all, at least five members of parliament were killed.

A report that Senator Rene Hachette was killed was proved false. The dead man was identified as a Hubert Hachette, and not the senator.

Gaston Poltevin, a member of the chamber of deputies, suffered a broken leg.

The Paris-bound tracks were cleared during the day, allowing overdue trains to proceed after 14 hours delay.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY DROWNED ON SUNDAY

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 25.—(UP)—Ernest Palmer, 17-year-old high school senior, was drowned in San Leandro bay Sunday while duck hunting. Accidental discharge of his shotgun caused a collapsible canvas boat to upset. Recoil of the gun was believed to have knocked Palmer unconscious.

Palmer's companions were Takahisa Korematsu, 19, and his brother Hiroshi, 17. They were rescued by Lt. John Barber of Redwood City, another hunter. Palmer's body was recovered.

A month and a half ago, in Worcester, Mass., the prelate was beaten and his attackers were fined $50 each and released. After this incident he retained a body guard.

Murmurs of discontent increased from the "old thought" group and at the suggestion of his advisers Archbishop Leon agreed to ascend the pulpit of the Holy Cross Armenian Catholic church here Sunday and explain the social and political theories that have caused his enemies to exorcise him as "pro-soviet."

The church was filled to capacity when the ancient ritual of the services began. First in the procession from the rear of the church came Bishop Hovsep Garfahian and directly behind him paced two candle-bearers.

Next was the archbishop, pacing slowly down the aisle in front of the altar boys and choristers.

The organ played Christmas hymns. As the archbishop reached the front line of pews there was a sudden commotion, and out sprang a man wielding a knife.

He swung a terrific blow. The archbishop dropped to the floor.

Meanwhile his bodyguard, Kosko Gragorian, had entered the church.

He saw the excitement and drew his gun, shouting to those about the archbishop's body to stand where they were. His shots brought a policeman, and soon a detail of detectives arrived.

Signals Fail

"The accident was due to frost which prevented the signals from functioning and the fog, which prevented the engineer from seeing."

The automatic hand on the locomotive showed it was traveling at 110 kilometers an hour. Some of the wooden splinters from the Nancy train were tossed 100 yards into fields on either side of the tracks.

Farm houses for miles around are housing the injured, including many children with badly crushed legs and bodies. Many had little chance to live, medical men said. Doctors and nurses, with medical supplies were rushed to the scene, working through the night.

The baggage room of the Neast railway station was converted into a chapel and morgue. Thousands of persons seeking relatives and friends swarmed over the station and tracks. The tragedy cast a pall over Christmas plans for Paris and all eastern France.

A further accident was narrowly avoided when the Paris-bound Chalons express on the opposite track arrived on the scene of the catastrophe. The engineer, halted his train when it smashed into the first debris blocking his track.

Among the dead at the station was an entire family—father, mother and three children, aged 4, 7 and 10. In the arms of the mother was a Christmas package containing a cowboy suit, while the dead man clutched a brace of ducks.

Unusual stories of heroism were enacted. A sailor, Jean Ancel, returning home on leave, was traveling in a compartment filled with children. He grabbed two and leaped through the door to safety. The others remaining behind were crushed.

Practically none of the passengers in the last two cars of the Nancy Express survived.

Empty Pockets

To facilitate identification, the pockets of the dead were emptied, and their possessions and papers laid on top of the bodies in rows at the station. Nuns knelt in prayer as relatives attempted to recognize the mutilated forms.

A number of soldiers were among the killed. The army authorities, co-operating in rescue work, removed the bodies of the soldiers and prepared to place them in white wooden coffins, as in wartime, for burial.

One body was identified as Jean Paul Morel, former under secretary of state for budget in the Herriot cabinet of 1926, when the franc collapsed. Other casualties included Deputy Victor Schleiter and the mayor of Verdun. In all, at least five members of parliament were killed.

A report that Senator Rene Hachette was killed was proved false. The dead man was identified as a Hubert Hachette, and not the senator.

Gaston Poltevin, a member of the chamber of deputies, suffered a broken leg.

The Paris-bound tracks were cleared during the day, allowing overdue trains to proceed after 14 hours delay.

sons who were convicted of such war-time offenses and who have complied with the sentences imposed on them. The effect of this proclamation is to restore to such persons their full civil rights.

Unofficial quarters pointed out that the proclamation does not apply to America's most celebrated draft-dodger, Grover Cleveland Bergdolt, fugitive in Germany.

"The benefit of the proclamation," the president said, "extends to all persons who were convicted of violations of Section 3 Title I of the espionage act or of a conspiracy to violate the same; or of a conspiracy to violate Section 5 of the selective service act; provided that they carried out the sentences which the courts inflicted."

The former statute relates to the publication of sedition literature and the making of sedition speeches; the latter provision covers conspiracy to obstruct or interfere with the enforcement of the draft.

The proclamation expressly provides that the pardon does not extend to any other offenses than those specifically enumerated."

Issuance of the proclamation was the last official act of Mr. Roosevelt before he settled back to enjoy the Christmas holidays with members of his family.

In connection with the pardons for war-time offenses, it was recalled that in the many cases not covered by the proclamation, amnesty had been granted by the late President Harding, who was called on to review them soon after he entered office.

The late Eugene Debs, several times Socialist party nominee for the presidency, was one of those pardoned by Mr. Harding.

of the Soviet banner, to replace the Armenian flag. At the world's fair in July Archbishop Leon refused to give his blessing for Armenian day because the new flag was not flown.

A month and a half ago, in Worcester, Mass., the prelate was beaten and his attackers were fined $50 each and released. After this incident he retained a body guard.

Murmurs of discontent increased from the "old thought" group and at the suggestion of his advisers Archbishop Leon agreed to ascend the pulpit of the Holy Cross Armenian Catholic church here Sunday and explain the social and political theories that have caused his enemies to excommunicate him as "pro-soviet."

The church was filled to capacity when the ancient ritual of the services began. First in the procession from the rear of the church came Bishop Hovsep Garabedian and directly behind him paced two candle-bearers.

Next was the archbishop, pacing slowly down the aisle in front of the altar boys and choristers.

The organ played Christmas hymns. As the archbishop reached the front line of pews there was a sudden commotion, and out sprang a man wielding a knife.

He swung a terrific blow. The archbishop dropped to the floor.

Meanwhile his bodyguard, Konos Gragorian, had entered the church. He saw the excitement and drew his gun, shouting to those about the archbishop's body to stand where they were. His shouts brought a policeman, and soon a detail of detectives arrived.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY DROWNED ON SUNDAY

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 26.—(UP)—Ernest Palmer, 17-year-old high school senior, was drowned in San Leandro bay Sunday while duck hunting. Accidental discharge of his shotgun caused a collapsible canvas boat to upset. Recoil of the gun was believed to have knocked Palmer unconscious.

Palmer's companions were Takahigha Korematsu, 19, and his brother Hiroshi, 17. They were rescued by Linton Barber of Redwood City, another hunter. Palmer's body was recovered.

of employment at the White House. None ever had been received on the same plane as diplomats and other distinguished White House visitors, and some inquired of newspaper correspondents how to greet their host at a social meeting.

Mr. Roosevelt received his guests on the second floor of the White House. He personally distributed toy trains, dolls and other gifts to the children. Mrs. Roosevelt, his mother, sat on the floor and romped with the children as they laughed and shouted while playing with their presents. "Sisits" and "Buzzie" Dall were there and had "a grand time" with their new little friends, a White House attendant said.

It was a busy day at the mansion on Pennsylvania avenue. After lighting the community tree, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt returned to the White House where Mr. Roosevelt gathered his family about him and read Dickens' Christmas carol. Later he superintended the ceremony of hanging the Yule stockings of the whole family over the fireplace in his own room.

When Mr. Roosevelt addressed the thousands massed about the community tree at dusk his face did not reflect the terrific strain under which he has been laboring in the last few months.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, praised the chief executive as "a great courageous leader who has led this nation out of the terrible depression."

After a brief investigation was brought to a standstill by the accident, the passengers were loaded into a convoy of special cars and busses and transported to Missoula, where they will board a special train and resume their journey at 9 o'clock tonight for eastern points.

The "Olympian," crack Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train, out of Tacoma, Wash., was still stalled near Drexel, Mont. Although all but six of its 125 passengers had been brought to St. Regis. From St. Regis the passengers were loaded into a convoy of special cars and busses and transported to Missoula, where they will board a special train and resume their journey at 9 o'clock tonight for eastern points.

The passengers were rescued by a crew of railroad men who carried them out a few at a time on dinky push cars. Whenever the cars met a slide, the passengers dismounted and walked around the obstruction to a relay point where another car awaited them. Of the ten-mile trip to St. Regis they were forced to walk about six miles.

Flood conditions became worse than ever despite the fact that a heavy downpour, which had drenched the area for a week, had stopped. Streams were still rising in many places.

The Milwaukee line was torn to shreds in several places west of St. Regis. Hundreds of feet of ties and tracks had been carried away by boiling torrents.

Le K. Sorenson, division superintendent of the Milwaukee line, estimated damage to his railroad in that area alone would total more than $1,000,000.

Scenes of desolation and tragedy greeted a United Press correspondent who rode into the storm-torn area on a rescue train. Barnyards were covered by debris choked water. Livestock had been carried away. Scores of homes were inundated.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRISTMAS SERMON TOPIC

"What Christmas Means to Me" was the subject of Perry Frederick Schrock at the First Congregational church yesterday morning. The Rev. Mr. Schrock said in part:

"Christmas is a witness to the greatness of Jesus. The birthday of an ordinary man does not become a national or world wide festival. It is only when one's life is significant that men remember the birth. It is the greatness of the life that gives significance to the birth. So the world wide observance of the birth of Jesus is a testimony to the real greatness of His life."

"That greatness is different from the greatness of other men in history. Other men achieve greatness as authors, artists, scientists, business men, statesmen, military leaders. But Jesus was great in life. He was a master in the art of living. Christmas is a testimony to the truth that achievement in living is the highest form of greatness."

"Christmas means the triumph of light over darkness. Have you ever wondered why December 25 was chosen as Christmas day? No one knows the exact day of the birth of Jesus. But there was a real reason for celebrating his birth on December 25. Mithraism was a real rival of early Christianity. It was a religion with many festivals and feasts. These were very attractive to the people. One of the most attractive was held on December 25. It celebrated the passing of the winter solstice when the days begin to grow longer and was called the festival of the victory of light over darkness. The early Christians shrewdly chose that day to celebrate the birth of The Light of the World. That birth means to us Christians the victory of light over darkness."

"Christmas means that God lives. Christmas is meaningless without God. A recent writer has said that the best place to look for insights into the character of God is at the top of creation and not at the bottom or along the line of ascent. Christmas is our declaration that Jesus stands at the top of creation—that among men he is the best of men."

"Our faith in the triumph of light, of peace, of justice, of love rests upon our faith in God. He is the God of peace and justice and love and therefore we dare to believe that peace shall triumph over war; justice overcome injustice; love shall be victor over hatred and bitterness. Christmas means to me that because God lives light shall ultimately triumph over darkness."

"Christmas is a confession of faith in man. Christmas implies that man is a creature of untold possibilities. It implies that the greatness of Jesus in the art of living is a possibility for other men also. It implies that the general average of human living can be so high that the Christmas ideals of peace, justice and love can be realized. There is no such thing as abstract peace and justice and love. They are strictly human qualities—qualities that can be known only through human lives. Christmas tells us that man can live upon the level of peace and justice and love. Christmas is an astounding confession of faith in man."

16 BOOKED AT COUNTY JAIL ON BOOZE CHARGES

This fine and was released Sunday.

Ray Donovan, 26, Orange, was booked for drunkenness by Orange police Saturday afternoon.

Ed Houllahan, 34, Orange, posted $25 bond and was released from the county jail Saturday afternoon on a charge of intoxication after being booked by Officers A. H. Westerman and Homer Davis. C. C. Wofford, 41, 407 Hobart street, checking traffic at McFadden and Halladay streets, was arrested for drunkenness at 3:20 p.m. Saturday after he had fallen into the street. He told officers he had been drinking wine. He was released after posting $25 cash bail.

A. J. Crow, 54, Orange cook, was booked for drunkenness by Orange police Saturday afternoon.

C. W. Devoe, carrying a bottle of wine, bottle of whiskey and a Bible, was arrested for drunkenness at Fourth and Main streets Sunday afternoon.

PAGEANT SLATED FOR DECEMBER 31

FULLERTON, Dec. 25.—A children's program was presented Friday night at the Christian church. Because of unavoidable circumstances, the high school department pageant, "These Are My Friends," was postponed. The pageant will be given Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the California Highway Patrolman Floyd Voder and Dan Adams found the men trying to direct traffic at the scene of an accident on South Spadra, between Anaheim and Fullerton.

Robert Brown, 21, 1050 West Pine street, was booked for drunkenness, petty theft and resisting an officer after a free-for-all fight he waged with bystanders in front of the home of A. E. Cavaness, 116 North Flower street, at 10 p.m. Saturday. Brown was said by officers to have smashed the window of a car owned by Cavaness with a wine jug and had assaulted the owner. Brown was subdued by bystanders until Officers Harry Prichard, W. E. B. Sherrill and George Boyd arrived.

R. Koon, 30, 523 North Birch street, was taken to the jail at 2:30 a.m. Sunday after he fought officers trying to arrest him at the night club, South Main street at Goetz club. It will close at midnight.

ST. LOUIS GUNNERS HOLD BEARS TO TIE

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 25.—(UPI)—The St. Louis Gunners played the Chicago Bears, National Professional League football champions, to a scoreless tie before an estimated crowd of 15,000 yesterday. Both teams missed field goals in the final period, the Gunners from the 27-yard line and the Bears from the 35-yard line.

Bennie Harrison, 32, North street, Anaheim, was brought to the jail Saturday evening to serve a 12 1/2 day jail sentence for intoxication but paid the $23 balance

MAYOR MAKES APPEAL TO CITIZENS FOR SUPPORT OF NEW CITY PARK PLAN

Expressing disappointment that the Chamber of Commerce committee regarding a new city park had disbanded, Mayor Paul Witmer issued a statement today in which he asked for continued action on the plans from all citizens in Santa Ana.

The mayor said:

"I am sorry that the Chamber of Commerce committee in regard to parks, has decided to disband and blames the city council for its negative stand on a new park.

"Santa Ana needs a park and now is the time to get one. There is no way to get a recreational center if we quit working for it.

The city council represents the city as a whole and generally votes for what the majority of its constituents desire. If the people want a park and public sentiment is for a park, I believe that the city council will act accordingly.

"I am sure, from knowing the council members intimately, that they are good enough business men to vote as the majority desires. I am sure they could be persuaded to vote favorably if enough sentiment is presented. After all, the council has not come out as directly opposed to a park although several members are honest and sincere in their statement that a park should not be built at this time.

"Santa Ana needs a park as much as any other community in the state and if one is not secured now, at a cost of $400 or $500 an acre, or $1000 an acre at the most, a delay of several years will boost the price to something like $6000 an acre. I am confident that the CWA projects will be continued until May and June and there will be ample opportunity to develop a park if action is crystallized in the near future."

'GOD'S GIVING AND OURS' IS CALVARY TOPIC

Speaking on "God's Giving and Ours" from the text, "God so loved the world that he gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life," the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren, pastor of Calvary church, in his sermon yesterday morning said:

"What a difference in the love that prompted God's gift to man and that which prompts our gifts. We give to those who love us and whom we have special reason to love, but God gave to His enemies. God commanded His love to us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

"Our love and giving is limited to those within certain circles—

our own loved ones and intimate friends. To take in a world scope is more than human love at its best can do. But God 'so loved the world' with all its sin, rebellion and enmity that He gave His very heart's wealth for its redemption. The test of true giving is its cost and what is left after the gift.

"Self is the world's god and most offerings are made at its shrine. Complete denial of self is a sacrifice superhuman. God's gift was supreme in its cost and completeness. We give with comfortable restrictions.

"Then, what a difference there is in the permanency of the gift.

We give things that perish with the using but the gift of God is eternal.

Our gifts have no bearing upon real life or real living.

We got along without them before receiving them and could get along without ever having them.

But the gift of God is Life and only those who know what that is can tell if it is worth while and whether they could get along without it."

SIGNIFICANCE OF CHRISTMAS
SERMON TOPIC

"What Christmas Means to Me" was the subject of Perry Frederick Schrock at the First Congregational church yesterday morning. The Rev. Mr. Schrock said in part:

"Christmas is a witness to the greatness of Jesus. The birthday of an ordinary man does not become a national or world wide festival. It is only when one's life is significant that men remember the birth. It is the greatness of the life that gives significance to the birth. So the world wide observance of the birth of Jesus is a testimony to the real greatness of His life."

That greatness is different from the greatness of other men in history. Other men achieve greatness as authors, artists, scientists, business men, statesmen, military leaders. But Jesus was great in life. He was a master in the art of living. Christmas is a testimony to the truth that achievement in living is the highest form of greatness.

"Christmas means the triumph of light over darkness. Have you ever wondered why December 25 was chosen as Christmas day? No one knows the exact day of the birth of Jesus. But there was a real reason for celebrating his birth on December 25. Mithraism was a real rival of early Christianity. It was a religion with many festivals and feasts. These were very attractive to the people. One of the most attractive was held on December 25. It celebrated the passing of the winter solstice when the days begin to grow longer and was called the festival of the victory of light over darkness. The early Christians shrewdly chose that day to celebrate the birth of The Light of the World. That birth means to us Christians the victory of light over darkness."

"Christmas means that God lives. Christmas is meaningless without God. A recent writer has said that the best place to look for insights into the character of God is at the top of creation and not at the bottom or along the line of ascent. Christmas is our declaration that Jesus stands at the top of creation—that among men he is the best of men."

"Our faith in the triumph of light, of peace, of justice, of love rests upon our faith in God. He is the God of peace and Justice and love and therefore we dare to believe that peace shall triumph over war; justice overcome injustice; love shall be victor over hatred and bitterness. Christmas means to me that because God lives light shall ultimately triumph over darkness."

"Christmas is a confession of faith in man. Christmas implies that man is a creature of untold possibilities. It implies that the greatness of Jesus in the art of living is the possibility for other men also. It implies that the general average of human living can be so high that the Christian ideals of peace, justice and love can be realized. There is no such thing as abstract peace and justice and love. They are strictly human qualities—qualities that can be known only through human lives. Christmas tells us that man can live upon the level of peace and justice and love. Christmas is an astounding confession of faith in man."

Putting Fishing on a High Plane'GOD'S GIVING AND OURS' IS CALVARY TOPIC

Speaking on "God's Giving and Ours" from the text, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life," the Rev. Frank E. Lindgren, pastor of Calvary church, in his sermon yesterday morning said:

"What a difference in the love that prompted God's gift to man and that which prompts our gifts. We give to those who love us and whom we have special reason to love, but God gave to His enemies. God commended His love to us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

"Our love and giving is limited to those within certain circles—our own loved ones and intimate friends. To take in a world scope is more than human love at its best can do. But God so loved the world' with all its sin, rebellion and enmity that He gave His very heart's wealth for its redemption. The test of true giving is its cost and what is left after the gift."

"Self is the world's god and most offerings are made at its shrine. Complete denial of self is a sacrifice superhuman. God's gift was supreme in its cost and completeness. We give with comfortable restrictions.

"Then, what a difference there is in the permanency of the gift. We give things that perish with the using but the gift of God is eternal. Our gifts have no bearing upon real life or real living. We got along without them before receiving them and could get along without ever having them. But the gift of God is Life and only those who know what that is can tell if it is worth while and whether they could get along without it."

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS AND MESSAGES OF HOPE EXTENDED BY PASTORS OF S. A. CHURCHES

Pastors of churches in Santa Ana joined today in extending Christmas greetings to the people of Santa Ana and Orange County. In their messages to the people of the community they expressed the wish that the purpose of the Christ Child who was born to die on Calvary be not lost to the heart of a world sorely distressed through collapse of those things held dear to mankind.

In their greetings, the ministers—pastor, First Congregational church—Christmas is a reminder of the genuine wealth that is ours. It reminds us of the richness of life that has come to us through friendship with many people. It tells us again that love, good-will and gratitude are realities, and that they are ours abundantly. These constitute a fortune that always pays dividends and cannot be affected by economic depressions.

Rev. O. W. Reinier, pastor, Richland Avenue M. E. church—My greetings would contain many things. Let this be a partial wish that in every home in Santa Ana there might be something that comes as a good glad gift, reminding us that He came and He is and that with His help we can give mind and will and vision to the task of building a social order based upon righteousness and justice!

Dr. George A. Warner, pastor, First Methodist church—"Tis a paradox to associate power and a babe. Yet that is just what Christmas does. Christmas is the prophecy, still partially unfulfilled, that the world's best known baby shall be Lord of all the earth. He forces no issue. He pleads for fidelity. His love—active good-will—is winning.

"Strange—is it not? The Caesars pass, shorn of their power and pride. While He, the lowly born, is King, whom once they crucified! Where'er tomorrow's sun shall dawn o'er seas and lands far-flung. The name of Christ shall rise to God, and Christmas hymns be sung."

Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor, First Baptist church—The Register is very kind in permitting a word of Christmas greetings to the people of our fair community. Christmas! It allows our best nature, our best feelings and desire and spirit to push aside the selfish and the unlovely elements that we all too often place in control. It releases to free flow and to beautiful expression the noblest promptings and impulses, permitting them to crystallize in kindly, helpful deeds. At no time, perchance, do we rise to such high moral and spiritual levels. Were the Christmas spirit to grip us universally and permanently we would soon correct those social wrongs that are unbearable, those political evils that make the world unsafe, those economic maladjustments that make it unsound, and establish it on a basis of security and happiness.

Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor, First Christian church—The members of the Christian church and their pastor send greetings to every home in our beautiful little city and county, praying that the richest and purest Christmas blessings shall be yours, and that in the midst of our perplexities and worries we shall give thanks for Him who came to give us all the more "Abundant Life," and it is our prayer that along with the material gifts may come the greatest of all gifts, the Christ, into each of our homes, and that our city and county shall be guided by His spirit. A Merry Christmas to all.

Ensign and Mrs. I. J. Torgerson, Salvation Army—We extend the season's greetings and sincere thanks to our many friends for the splendid co-operation received in 1933. May the spirit of Him whose birth we again celebrate bring peace and good-will to you and yours this Christmastide. God bless you, one and all.

William J. Hatter, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah—In extending this season's greetings to the people of the community, may I suggest that this season means much more to us than it meant to our fathers? It must mean always something more—a greater ideal of helpfulness, a wider sense of our responsibility and a much larger acknowledgment of the claims upon us of the friendless, afflicted and needy. With this thought may I extend the heartfelt wish for a Merry Christmas to all, and that God's abundant blessing may be bestowed upon our people and nation throughout 1934.

O. Scott McFarland, minister, First Presbyterian church—Again we celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Jesus. Rightly is a festival of friendship. Rightly so, for it was God's friendly interest in humanity which caused Him to give His Son.

The past year has had its problems, its burdens, its disappointments for all. To some it has had its heart-aches and its sorrows. But God is with us, and we hear again the song of the angels and the assuring words of our unfailing Friend, "I will never leave you nor forsake you." This is His promise for each of us in the New Year we are soon to enter.

I would urge you to be among the multitudes who will make their way to the church at this Christmas time, there to join in the Christmas carols and Christmas prayers and to hear again the "old old story." With the refrain of "Glory to God" ringing in our souls, may the exceeding beauty of His grace abide with us this Christmas.

C. M. Aker, pastor Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church—Thanks for the opportunity to express through the kindness of The Register my heartfelt good wishes to all the readers, young and old, of the big Register family. If I were Santa Claus I would come down all your chimneys and fill all your stockings with toys for the kiddies, nuts for pa and ma, and some nice gumdrops for grandma and grandpa. But I am not Santa Claus and so all I can do is just to wish I were. But better than all these I wish that He whose birthday we celebrate next Monday may enter your hearts and make them radiate Christmas cheer throughout the whole round year.

Frank E. Lindgren, pastor Calvary church—Calvary church is happy to extend to the readers of The Register hearty Christmas greetings. We realize the varied emotions this season of the year brings to a troubled world. Some will enjoy all the cheer and happiness that peace and plenty can offer them; others will be suffering ever increasing bitterness. More than nineteen hundred years have passed since the church began preaching, "On earth peace, good will to men," only to see chaos, hatred and suffering after it all. The reason is obvious, "He came to His own and His own received Him not." The Light rejected means night projected. May you find your supreme joy in Him, God's gift to stricken souls, is the prayer of Calvary church.

Rev. R. A. Wekenman, pastor St. Joseph's church—with grateful hearts for our redemption, we join in spirit again the Divine Child Jesus with Miss Virgin Mother Mary and Saint Joseph in Bethlehem. May the Holy Family inspire our parents and children with the salutary principles of true Christian living, so that our community may be proud of its homes where, in the sanctuary of the family, worthy citizens for heaven and earth are developed under the influence and guidance of domestic virtues and the generous grace of Almighty God.

Rev. D. F. Myers, Foursquare Gospel Tabernacle—At this time of the year our hearts and minds are turned to Christmas and all of its attendant blessings of the homecoming of loved ones, and great festivity. Let us not forget the true meaning of Christmas time. "For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ, the Lord." Luke 2:11.

That was the most wonderful birth that ever occurred in this world. It is not strange there were so many remarkable events accompanying it—angels from heaven and wise men from afar. Let us be wise men and make our way to the house of God to worship Him.

Rev. Fred A. Flora, First Church of the Brethren—Christmas Greeting to all in the name of Him whose birthday we celebrate.

As we are expressing our gratitude to relatives and friends who have remembered us with gifts and cards of greeting, may we not forget to be grateful to our God for the gift of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Rev. H. W. Meyer pastor Saint Peter Lutheran church—Merry Christmas! A blessed Christmas! This is the season of the year for cheery greetings. Not just another holiday greeting—but a sincere and heartfelt message of peace, good-will toward men. Christmas isn't as lavish as it once was in the marketplace, but the real essence and God-given joy of the Holy Season has not vanished. God is magnify the Lord. And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my saviour." Christmas should be the most joyous day of the years. Let us make it so by helping others. May all have a Merry Christmas is the best wish of pastor and people of the Church of the United Brethren in Christ.

Christ is that gift, prompted by unspeakable love, bearing unspeakable value, and bringing unspeakable blessings. Christ's birth, the greatest story ever told; the most familiar story in all literature, told in more languages, in more homes, beside more firesides, before more altars than any other story. It's God's story to a squirrel world, God's "unspeakable gift."

Elder B. R. Spear, Seventh Day Adventist church—at this time of year, when the attention of the world is drawn to the Christ-Child, let us not lose sight of His Victorious Life, His Vicarious Death, His Resurrection, His Ascension, and His Promise to return. These are the things of greatest importance.

G. E. Waddie, pastor First Church of the Nazarene—The Christmas carols have just been sung. The merry bells are still ringing. Happy voices, like sweet echoes of the rejoicing angels, are still vibrant in the air. Around the world the Christmas joys and congratulations have come with the morning sunlight and kept pace with the hours in unbroken strains of prayer and praise.

What event is it that has thus moved all mankind? It is the sublime truth that long ago the infinite Son of God joined Himself to humanity, and crossed the threshold of earth with baby feet at Bethlehem—the greatest event in all the world's history. And what was the purpose of it all? He came to be a Saviour who is Christ the Lord." In His name I send Christmas greetings and wish for one and all a very Happy New Year.

C. D. Hicks, pastor Christian Missionary and Alliance—to all people everywhere. To the homeless, the friendless and the penniless, particularly; greetings: "Behold I bring good tidings of great joy." For unto you on this day of gifts, a gift is given. The gift of a friend—A friend, the deeper your poverty the closer He sticks. A friend, the greater your debt the more willing your credit. A friend, the sicker your heart the more comfort is yours. Christ is His name, God is the giver and to you is the gift.

Samuel Edgar, pastor Reformed Presbyterian Church—as we look for sure footing these days, as a great people, footing that will be secure as we rise out of the depression, let these words come to us anew and be written high in our City and National life. "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people." The Rev. T. W. Ringland, Pastor First United Brethren Church—The Christmas season is a time of joy and rejoicing and this with the best of reason and right. It is the time when we reflect on the reasons why our hearts should go out in the highest happiness and what reasons Christians have for wishing each other a Happy Christmas?

We rejoice because it is the birth of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords and that God in human form has been here, He has visited the earth, men saw the wonders that He wrought and marveled at the wisdom of His words.

Let us join in glad acclaim with Mary when she said, "My son doth

LUNCH CLUBS PLAN TRIBUTE FOR DON TEAM

NEW OFFICERS OF KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO BE INSTALLED

Program arrangements for installation of newly elected officers of the Santa Ana Commandery No. 26, Knights Templar, set for Wednesday evening, December 27, at the Masonic temple, were completed today, according to F. C. Rowland, chairman of the committee on arrangements. The installation ceremonies will be preceded by a banquet, which is open to all Masons, their ladies and friends. Following the installation ceremonies, there will be an entertainment program, including instrumental and vocal selections by local artists.

The joint meeting which will take the form of a banquet to be held Thursday noon in the Ebell clubhouse on French street, will be held to pay respect to members of the football team which won the conference and Southern California championship this year.

William H. "Bill" Henry, sports editor of the Los Angeles Times, will be the speaker at the meeting, according to arrangements made by presidents of the service clubs. Dr. Harry G. Huffman, of the Kiwanis club, E. B. Sharkey, of the Rotary club, and Carson Smith of the Lions club.

Henry not only is one of the coast's best sport authorities, but also had much to do with the tremendous success of the 1932 Olympic games in Los Angeles.

Entertainment for the meeting will be furnished by the Junior College Quartet, directed by Myrtle Martin.

SANTA CLAUS

By Helen Welshimer

YOU wonder if there is a Santa Claus, You've never seen him, you say? Child, he's been spinning over the world For two thousand years, you know. Haven't you found his spinning tops, His dolls and his round red drums? Then certain it is that once a year The King of the Far North comes!

NEVER you'll see his crimson cloak As red as a candy cane; Never you'll hear his reindeer's hoofs Rattle the window-pane. But when did you see the Man in the Moon? Or fairies or goblins or elves? Yet you believe when you read of them In books on your nursery shelves!

THE only things that are real and true Are fantasy, faith, romance, And the magic ring by the wishing tree Where the faerie folk are always. Above them's the Christmas trees Since that day in an Eastern land When the angels sang to a newborn babe— Child, do you understand?

Following are the officers to be installed: E. A. Pagenkopf, eminent commander; Ass't. Hofmann, generalissimo; R. W. McKnight, captain-general; S. G. Anderson, senior warden; C. E. Smith, junior warden; A. N. Zerman, treasurer; F. C. Rowland, recorder; C. C. Violett, prelate; W. D. Finn, standard bearer; J. H. Shaw, warden; F. H. Cloyes, first guard; C. V. Dennis, second guard; J. E. Lloyd, third guard, and Charles Smith, sentinel.

The wife of a laborer in Foglia, Italy, recently gave birth to five babies, three boys and two girls, all alive and healthy.

It is impossible to wish a Merry Christmas to you all personally,

So we take this opportunity to extend to you the Heartiest of Yuletide Greetings

MAN DIES AT BEACH AFTER LIQUOR PARTY

John (Blackie) Stanaker, 48-year-old oil worker, was suffocated by smoke and soot from an oil stove in a shack in Laguna Canyon just inside the city limits some time Sunday morning, following a pre-Christmas party during which much liquor was consumed, according to evidence obtained by Coroner Earl R. Abbey and Chief of Police Abe W. Johnson of Laguna Beach, who made an investigation.

Coroner Abbey has ordered an autopsy to be made tomorrow in the morgue of the Laguna Beach Funeral home, where the body was removed.

The body was discovered by Ray Richards and Herbert Deffey at 9:30 yesterday morning when they went to the shack to awaken Stanaker. Richards and E. H. Gates told Chief Johnson and Officer Jack Blakeney that they had seen the man alive about 11 o'clock Saturday night. According to Coroner Abbey, several witnesses said there had been much drinking in the shack and that Stanaker had been drinking with the others. The dead man is said to have a brother living in Costa Mesa. He formerly was employed in the Huntington Beach oil field and came to Laguna Beach about a year ago. He had been working at odd jobs.

Returning early last night to his home, 825 Lacy street, Herschel Whitney, 16, junior police officer found a Mexican in the house. The intruder said that he was looking for food and grappled with the youth when he attempted to detain him. Young Whitney shouted for help and the Mexican grabbed a knife from the kitchen sink and threatened the boy with death.

Whitney battled with the Mexican until the man who weighed approximately 145 pounds, freed himself and fled. Whitney pursued the man for a block before he was overtaken.

Returning to the house Whitney found that the place had been ransacked and a purse containing a dollar bill had been taken. The rifled purse was recovered.

LAMP IGNITED DAVENPORT EVERETT, Wash.—Ben Hardy bought a davenport, a base-ball lamp. The sun shone through the vase, set the davenport afire.

Poinsettias at Mather Home Unique

Many homes today are decorated with red poinsettias reflective of the Christmas season, but there is only one home here that can boast a display of pink poinsettias.

In the rear of the home of Cotton Mather, 2022 North Ross street, are about six bushes of unique poinsettias, blooming a soft-tinted pink flower, believed to be the only ones in the city.

Origin of the pink poinsettia is not known by Mather, who takes pride in the plants. He obtained them from Los Angeles, and this is the first Christmas that they have been in bloom.

DESPERATE NEED OF WORLD IS HOLY LAND PILGRIMAGE AVERS REV. HARRY OWINGS

THE REV. Harry Evan Owings delivered his Christmas message yesterday during the morning service of the First Baptist church, choosing as his subject "What Do You Want for Christmas?" The sermon was preceded by an inspiring program of music. The evening service was devoted to presentation of Christmas music.

In his morning sermon the Rev. Mr. Owings said:

"Christmas is the time when mankind makes its pilgrimage to the Holy Land, especially Bethlehem. Our thoughts are summoned to converge upon him who was the baby of the manger and grew to be the Man of Galilee. There is desperate need that the world pursue that pilgrimage today. We have come to that holy place and person in Bible story and song. We have sought Him in pageant and drama. We have made the journey in travel and tour. We have sought Him in art and the paintings of the masters. We have sought Him in theological study. We have acclaimed Him Lord and Christ and Son of God and Savior of mankind.

"But what there is one thing we have not found and one thing we have not taken away. We have not yet caught the Jesus-spirit to control our lives and to regulate our souls. And it is this that we need and this He wants us to have more than anything else because it is vital and all essential. To this quest we are summoned today, summoned by the dire need and distress of the world if by nothing else. We want His spirit if by some chance we may change our ways and win security by making that the warp and woof of our civilization—the spirit of desiring mercy. Not sacrifice, the spirit of guarding against secularism and worldliness, the spirit of peace and good-will, the spirit of blessed-are-the-poor, the spirit of valuing supremely each fellowman, the spirit of forgiveness."

"Some one has pointed out with skillful phrasing that our social wrongs made our society unbearable, the political evils made it unsafe, and the economic maladjustments made it unendurable. Here are the evidences that the controlling spirit is the propulsive, materialistic, greed and avarice. And while we are so faddy and slug-

Santa Ana police are looking for Leona Roth, 15, who has been missing from her home in Culver City since October 20. Aid of the Santa Ana police was sought Sunday by the girl's mother after she had received a Christmas card from her daughter. The card had been mailed to Santa Ana, she said. The mother described her daughter as five feet and one inch tall and weighing 110 pounds. She had brown hair and blue eyes and at the time she disappeared was wearing a light blue blouse. Information regarding the girl should be telephoned to the Santa Ana police, the Venice Police or to the girl's parents at 4312 Grove street in Culver City.

Children Enjoy Turkey Dinner

FULLERTON, Dec. 25.—Children of members of the Fullerton Unemployed Workers' association Saturday enjoyed a turkey dinner at the association headquarters, and an additional Christmas party at the American Legion hall, where gathered about a Christmas tree, each child received a gift.

At the dinner table, with a little Santa Claus at each plate, made up of an apple, a pit of cotton, toothpicks, a marshmallow and three cloves, the children received many extra treats.

Miss Ruth Gardell, 909 1/2 East First street, reported to police that a black fur coat valued at $29.50 was stolen from the French Academy of Beauty, Otto building, Saturday morning.

Grace Wurster, 316 East Chestnut, reported to police last night that her police dog had disappeared. She described the dog as large with a black tipped tail and nose. He answers to the name of King and was wearing a collar fastened with a small lock.

Joe Finley has asked police to search for his automobile which was stolen Saturday night from the corner of Fifth and Ross streets.

Orange police have asked the Santa Ana department to assist in locating the automobile of W. R. Hayes of that city. The machine was stolen Saturday night in Orange.

TOO MUCH!

The troubles of your heavy-weight champion of the world are beginning. In a recent bankruptcy hearing, Primo Carnera stated that he had received $10 for his knockout of Jack Sharkey. The Moving Mountain man to say that he could not all what he had received for part in the motion picture, the Prizefighter and the Lady, he did it merely for the publicity, with perhaps an NRA label thrown in.

There are those who can remember back a few years to Dempsey and they will say that if Dempsey got $800 for knocking out Jack Sharkey the way he did, he was overpaid. Then again, there must have been many in the house at night who would have given G. Preem $800 personally to see the Frenzied Fishwife punched into a coma.

This corner, not having that much at hand, would strike the man off a handsome medal at least, duplicating the generous nature of Mussolini.

SUCH THINGS CAN BE

The story is outlandish, of course, but could easily be true. Those familiar with the grim endurance Primo carries along as members of the cast—Bill Duffy, Ken Madden, Charlie Friedman and Abe Attell—will think that when Primo says he actually got $60 from that fight he is just bragging.

Carnera's woen promise to multiply now that he's champ. He may come to the point of har-

RUNYAN WINS PASADENA OPEN

SMITH, CARDS' SUB END, HURT IN SCRIMMAGE

PASADENA, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Stanford's Pacific Coast football champions arrived from Palo Alto yesterday for the final week of practice before engaging Columbia in the annual Tournament of Roses gridiron classic.

The ill luck that dogged Coach "Tiny" Thorndike's ends continued unabated. First Al Norgard, who caught the pass that beat California, was declared ineligible because of hitherto undisclosed football playing.

Lyle Smith, who succeeded to Norgard's post, injured his shoulder in scrimmage and may not be able to play although physicians hope for the best. Meanwhile, Keith Toppling, a Pasadena boy, is subbing for Smith.

Coach Thorndike will give his charges a brief workout Christmas Day in the Rose Bowl, where upwards of 75,000 are expected to see the game a week from tomorrow.

Players' ranks will be thinned somewhat because the coach gave permission to players living in Southern California to spend Christmas at home. For the others a number of informal celebrations are planned.

COLUMBIA PLAYERS TAKE SIGHTSEEING TRIP

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 25.—(UP)—A day of complete rest was given the Columbia University football squad yesterday, the second it spent here en route to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford.

The players and Coach Lou Little were taken on a three-hour sightseeing trip to visit the famous San Xavier mission in the desert. A Christmas tree party was held in the dining room of their hotel with presents for all last night.

One of the porters from the Columbia's Pullman cars donned a Santa Claus outfit, substituting for Charlie Barrett, veteran trainer, who was forced to bed by an attack of grippe.

Barrett will be back on the job tomorrow when the Lions resume play in the University of Arizona stadium tomorrow. Only a light workout is scheduled but stiff scrimmages are on Little's program Tuesday and Wednesday. The team will "taper off" training thereafter.

WESTERN GAS DROPS 5-3 GAME TO HARBOR

FIELD GOAL GIVES NORTH 3-0 TRIUMPH

Although Pitchers Farris and Mallett held Newport Harbor to four hits, Newport Harbor's baseball club defeated Western Gas, 5-3, in a non-league game at Costa Mesa yesterday. Both teams are members of the Inter-City Winter league but are "vacationing" through the Christmas holidays.

The Harboretes put over a cluster of three runs in the last of the fifth. Willcutt walked, Clemens singled, Welch was safe on the base but deferred to John's opinion as he had more experience with sheep. It was very cold, with the wind blowing off the ice-field, and the question was whether to stay where we were until the sheep began to feed in the afternoon or slip away, get the horses and try another approach that didn't promise much success.

Riot of Color Impresses

It was fascinating to see that after getting off my horse, letting the pack-train go on, and feasting my eyes on this bouquet of God and nature. I returned on two other occasions to see it and each time it seemed to grow more beautiful. The Indian, John, was not unmindful of its beauty and charm. I have not tried to describe it—I know my limitations—but I have not exaggerated. What a pity the scene couldn't come under the eye of one capable of a word picture. We had been here before—and these flowers were not here—may never again—but I have seen them and I am happy.

Surely I have a lot to be thankful for—that I have eyes to see and behold this beautiful picture from the brush of nature. Not a mile away the passing winter had left a snowfield of a thousand acres and yet this delicate garden was untouched. Isn't it a little strange that to my untrained eyes should be given this untamed floral feast? We are told God scatters the aurora around the world and sends the showers to bless us all and I guess he thought a lone hunter had a valentine coming to him and so he put this one in his path.

On this, as on all former occasions here, I had noted a small, six-petaled flower that generally grew in a bed from six to twelve inches in diameter and usually the cluster was as perfectly round as if made or measured by an instrument, and where the soil was at all good, or the plant protected by partial shade, they were of a royal or purple blue (excuse my color description) and grew so close and compact they had the appearance of one big flower. Florist or botanical name unknown, I called it "My Lady's Jewel Case."

In Quest of Rams

But I am hunting, not getting "soft" over wild flowers, so let's go out and kill something—a sheep, a goat or some ptarmigan. The

We finally decided on this plan, made another detour, left the horses to feed in a little draw and started the stalk, the last seven or eight yards on hands and knees. Some of the rams either had moved, as is often the case, or we hadn't marked the spot exactly for one ram had come higher up the hill. He saw us and started to run, the others following and they all bunched up, probably 150-160 yards away.

John, with the glasses, indicated the one with the best head and when they got unscrambled and started to run, I took the shot and we both thought I scored, although the sheep didn't leave his feet. I was positive I had hit too far back and said so. Before I could shoot again the sheep were rounding the point of a hill and temporarily out of sight but heading for a pass in the mountain. They had much further to go than we but when they came in sight again I seated myself for a long shot and made a miserable miss.

John said the glasses indicated our ram was traveling strong when they passed out of sight. Well, we gave it up as a bad job, went back to the horses and made a long circle, thinking we might pick them up again—but we never saw them. We continued hunting away from camp and high up in the mountains. I should mention the guides here never carry a gun, or at least I never allow mine to do so as I believe they concentrate better with only the binoculars.

Guide Races Gophers

Then, to me, a funny thing occurred. These Indians are fond of gophers, consider them a great delicacy. Leading his horse between a gopher and his hole and started after the little fellow, trying to step on it, hit it with a rock, kick it, anyway to kill it, and for what seemed to me to be 8 or 10 minutes the dodging pursuit continued. URBAN DEFEATS COLLEGE GRID SALEM ELEVEN EXPERTS FAVOR BY 18-0 SCORE RULE CHANGES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Urban Academy of Los Angeles defeated Salem, Mass., high school, New England's prep champs, 18 to 0, in the only inter-sectional game of its kind here this season at Wrigley field yesterday.

In the first quarter, Jesse Urban half, ambled 28 yards around end to score. The conversion attempt was blocked. In the second period Campbell intercepted Peckham's pass and went 31 yards to a touch down. Woodward failed to convert.

"Tex" Harris, fullback, passed to Howard Ward, end, in the third quarter for the final Urban score, climaxing a 42-yard drive. Woodward again missed the conversion.

In the third period the Witches put on a drive that carried them to the Urban 18-yard line, but there they were held for downs, and did not again threaten.

Turcott and Gesek, ends, and Dolan, center, were outstanding for the Witches. Salem actually outgained Urban, making seven first downs to the winners' five.

CHRISTMAS IN SPORT BRINGS FUNNY RESULTS

BY PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—The spirit of Christmas met the sport sector today with some surprising results.

Here, for instance, we find Babe Ruth, panjandrum of baseball, (don't you love that?) intimating he will not hold up Jake Ruppert, N. Y. Yankee owner, on a new contract. Babe's Santa Claus to Jake is good, for Jake is rated only about $70,000 in the financial blue book.

"Yeah," said the home run fashioned, as he finished making an electrical record for broadcasting, "I'm gonna give Old Jake a break this time. Guess I'll let him off with about 40 grand."

The Babe flicked the ash off a big black cigar with a nonchalant finger as if $40,000 were merely coffee and cake money, and wandered out to get a price on a new foreign car.

And here we find the three magi of wrestling—Jacques Curley, Paul Bowser and Sam Parks—burying the hatchet and not in one another's skulls for a change. The masters of the grunt, groan and grimace racket got together today and decided to pool their rasslers.

This means that Jim Londos, Jim Browning, et al. will be able to toss one another out of the ring hereafter at so much per toss and on a friendly basis. Just a big happy Yuletide family.

And here's old Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, looking for a beneficent Santa. The B. S. in Joe's book is one who will drop in to "Lefty" Grove in his sock in exchange for Brennan and Farrell and Lynn Lary. Will Tom Yawkey please don those white whiskers for Joe's benefit?

And here's Judge Emil (Boston Braves) Fuchs offering $130,000 in cash for players to the Reds for "Chick" Hafey. Now there's a real Santa Claus.

The Southerners kicked and the Northerners began a drive early in the second session that culminated with Nikolai's field goal.

In the third quarter Joe Buonanno, Brown back, slipped around the left side of the line for 35 yards to the Southern 30-yard line where the ball was lost on downs.

In the fourth period, play was confined to midfield.

And from Quakerville comes word that Penn will stick to the Gates Plan, with reservations. Old grads were ready to throw a fit until they read the reservations which, while saving face, take the hinges off the Gates Plan. The Yuletide joker is that spring training will be okayed and the boys will even get scholastic credit for it! Even "Chick" Mehan laughed when he read that one.

And, finally we find the N. Y. state legislature going to play Santa to the racing game. Betting will be legalized. But their gift will carry reverse English for the Jockey club for the salons intend to supersede that hitherto omnipotent body with a racing commission of their own.

All in all, not a bad Christmas. And the same to you.

Smiles in SPORTS

Several years ago the Texas league was a tough row for umpires to hoe. Galveston had the reputation of being the toughest town in the circuit.

Jack Daly and Louis Weir were old hands in the game, however, and after a particularly strenuous session one afternoon, they made up their minds to pull one on the fans who had grown so loud.

Before the game the umpires, after announcing the batteries, informed the crowd that, in view of past incidents, they had decided the only fair way to officiate was from the stands.

Whereupon they walked off the field and took seats. Daly in the front row directly behind the plate and Weir behind first base. There they stayed for a full inning, calling their decisions.

The stunt went over and they had no further trouble from the Galveston fans.

THE WINNER

Little Paul Runyan (below) of White Plains, N. Y., received a Christmas gift of $1000 today as a result of his victory in the $4000 Pasadena Open Golf tournament. He finished five strokes ahead of Mac Smith.

MAC SMITH AND HORTON SMITH, SECOND, THIRD

PASADENA, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Blazing the winter gold trail of California golf, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., won the $4000 Pasadena Open Golf tournament with a brilliant 72-hole aggregate of 282 yesterday.

Two under par, Runyan's four rounds were the more remarkable in that they included a 75, four over, for his morning's round.

His aggregate by rounds, was 68, 67, 75, 71—282.

Runyan finished a comfortable three strokes ahead of MacDonald Smith, who had 285, and Horton Smith was third with 286.

Densmore Shute, current British Open champion, was fourth with 288, followed by Johnny Thomson of Long Beach, Cal., and Harry Cooper of Chicago, with 289.

Bill Mehlhorn of Brooklyn and Fred Morrison of Pasadena were next with 290, with Leo Diegel, "Wiffy" Cox and Olin Dutra buncheted with 291.

Plays Cool Golf

Runyan fought off a heavy load of last-round pressure to coast in ahead. He approached the afternoon round with a 54-hole aggregate of 21, two under par, realizing that par golf probably would suffice the rest of the way. From the outset, however, he fell into misadventures from which he was extricated only by cool, perfect emergency golf.

On the third, his drive found a muddy rough and the ball rested in a deep heel print. His spoon shot flew straight to the green and landed eight feet away to drop a minute later for a birdie three.

He went over on the 12th and approached the 15th tee in even par, needing only a par five, a three and two fours. His drive fell 200 yards short and a wide trap barred his approach. Instead of playing safe and short, Runyan swung a full spoon in a bold play for the pin. It slipped into the trap and under a low hanging tree. He exploded out to within two feet of the pin, then missed the tiny spot to take a par five.

Co-Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate then took their Eastern team to Palo Alto, where the players will practice on Stanford's turf.

Co-Coaches Percy Loevy of Denver and "Babe" Hollingshead of Washington State took their Western players to Berkeley. They will practice at University of California.

Runyan Ears $1000

He parred the 16th and short 17th and the match was over when he took his tee shot out of a divot hole on the 18th fairway and laid it 10 feet away from the pin. He missed again for the birdie, but his 71 was good enough and to spare.

Runyan earned $1000, MacDonald Smith $600, Horton Smith $400, Shute $350, Cooper and Thomson $275 each, Mehlhorn and Morrison $187.50 each, Diegel, Cox and Dutra $133.33 each, and the next 10 players $50 each.

Leading scorers:

282—Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y.; 285—MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn.; 286—Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill.; 288—Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio; 289—Johnny Thomson, Long Beach, Calif.; 290—Bill Mehlhorn, Brooklyn; Fred Morrison, Pasadena; 291—Leo Diegel, Philadelphia; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles; 293—Ben Coitkin, San Francisco; 294—Willard Hutchinson, Santa Barbara; 295—John Dawson, Chicago; Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Willie Hunter, Pasadena; 296—Tom Creasy, Albany, N. Y.; 297—George S. Farnsworth, Boston; Byron Nelson, Texarkana, Ark.; 297—Ky Laffoon, Denver; Mortie Dutra, Detroit; John Perelli, Lake Tahoe, Calif.; 298—A. Espinoza, Akron, O.; Johnny Revolta, Milwaukee; Emery Zimmerman, Portland, Ore.; 299—Bobby Crukshank, Los Angeles; Craig Wood, Seal, N. J.

TOO MUCH!

The troubles of your heavyweight champion of the world are beginning. In a recent bankruptcy hearing, Primo Carnera cited that he had received $10 for his knockout of Jack Sharkey. The Moving Mountain went on to say that he could not tell all what he had received for his part in the motion picture, "The Prizefighter and the Lady." Perhaps he did it merely for the publicity, with perhaps an NRA label thrown in.

There are those who can remember back a few years to Dempsey and they will say that if Primo got $850 for knocking out Jack Sharkey the way he did, he was overpaid. Then again, there must have been many in the house at night who would have given $1,000 personally to see the frenzied Fishwife punched into a coma.

This corner, not having that much at hand, would strike the men off a handsome medal at least, duplicating the generous gesture of Mussolini.

SUCH THINGS CAN BE

The story is outlandish, of course, but could easily be true. Those familiar with the grim envelope Primo carries along as members of the cast—Bill Duffy, Owen Madden, Charlie Friedman and Abe Attell—will think that when Primo says he actually got $60 from that fight he is just bragging.

Carnera's word promise to multiply now that he's champ. He may come to the point of harrassment Dempsey knew when training for his first Tunney fight. Wherever he goes somebody will leap out at him with a judgment or attachment. Creditors with demands will be just around every corner.

One of his advisory board, Bill Duffy, is preparing even now to defend a suit concerning income tax matters, and Primo will have to say all over again that he does not know, or doesn't remember. Over Carnera there hangs that $20,000 breach of promise judgment held by a London waitress. The big fellow has been ordered to bring his European manager Louis Sorensen, with records of all transactions involving Primo, into court Feb. 1. Primo seems destined to do most of his training in court for that February bout with Tommy Loughran.

AND J. CALIENDE

Again and again that contract showing Sorensen his creditor for $20,000 will be dragged like a red herring across his trail. That $20,000 judgment awarded the waitress will bob up in the most unexpected places. There will be time to pay and that to pay, summons after summons to appear and "show cause why," etc.

At the recent bankruptcy hearing, among those present was J. Caliendo of 665 Fifth Avenue, New York. Mr. Caliendo was waving a bill for $120 and a sample of material he alleged he had made into a suit of clothes for the champion.

Mr. Caliendo should be more discreet. It is an honor to be tallied to the champion. Or, isn't it?

TRAILING BIG GAME

By George Briggs

((Being the Chronicle of a Sportsman's Hunt in Alaskan Country)

Next morning we made our first for camp meat and were successful. We were here two days, looking over some small rams and white goats and then moved to the foot of a towering, snow-capped mountain, the major peak of a rugged and rugged chain, deservedly carrying the reputation as a banner sheep country. It was in this section three years ago that I got good sheep and saw such a wonderful bunch of rams. We made our prettiest and most attractive camp here, an ice-cold stream on each side of the tent, ptarmigan (grouse) all about, and a pretty meadow where the horses, for the first time, were contented. And here I also saw the most gorgeous natural wildflower garden it has ever been my pleasure to see.

In a little protected park of probably three acres, I saw wild flowers of every kind and species known to me, also dozens of varieties I never saw before, and in such rank growth and profusion, with an unbleached coloring—all beyond my power of description. An artist might, advisedly I say, MIGHT, reproduce the scene. Violets, blues, a bronze columbine, lettuces, not so large as our cultivated kind but more gorgeous in color, delicate seven-petaled flower in bronze and red, not unlike our painted daisy, and myriads of others unknown to me. Oh, I can't begin to tell you of this riot of colors all scrambled together.

Ride of Color Impresses

So fascinating was it all that, after getting off my horse, letting the pack-train go on, and feasting on this bouquet of God and nature, I returned on two other occasions to see it and each time it seemed to grow more beautiful. The Indian, John, was not unmindful of its beauty and charm. I have not tried to describe it—I know my limitations—but I have not exaggerated. What a pity the scene couldn't come under the eye of one capable of a word picture. I had been here before and these flowers were not here—may never be again—but I have seen them and I am happy.

Surely I have a lot to be thankful for—that I have eyes to see and behold this beautiful picture from the brush of nature. Not a mile away the passing winter had left a snowfield of a thousand acres and yet this delicate garden was untouched. Isn't it a little strange that to my untrained eyes should be given this untamed floral feast? We are told God scatters the aurora around the world and sends the showers to bless us all and I guess he thought a lone hunter had a valentine coming to him and so he put this one in his path.

On this, as on all former occasions here, I had noted a small, six-petaled flower that generally grew in a bed from six to twelve inches in diameter and usually the cluster was as perfectly round as if made or measured by an instrument, and where the soil was at all good, or the plant protected by partial shade, they were of a royal or purplish blue (excuse my color description) and grew so close and compact they had the appearance of one big flower. Plural or botanical name unknown, I called it "My Lady's Jewel Case."

RUNYAN WINS PASADENA OPEN

SMITH, CARDS' SUB END, HURT IN SCRIMMAGE

CARTOONIST DEAD

Werner Laufer, (below) for years a sports cartoonist for The Register and N.E.A. Service, is dead, victim of a lingering illness.

PASADENA, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Stanford's Pacific Coast football champions arrived from Palo Alto yesterday for the final week of practice before engaging Columbia in the annual Tournament of Roses gridiron classic.

The ill luck that dogged Coach "Tinny" Thorhill's ends continued unabated. First Al Norgard, who caught the pass that beat California, was declared ineligible because of hitherto undisclosed football playing.

Lyle Smith, who succeeded to Norgard's post, injured his shoulder in scrimmage and may not be able to play although physicians hope for the best. Meanwhile, Keith Toppling, a Pasadena boy, is subbing for Smith.

Coach Thorhill will give his charges a brief workout Christmas Day in the Rose Bowl, where upwards of 75,000 are expected to see the game a week from tomorrow.

Players' ranks will be thinned somewhat because the coach gave permission to players living in Southern California to spend Christmas at home. For the others a number of informal celebrations are planned.

COLUMBIA PLAYERS TAKE SPORTSEEING TRIP

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 25.—(UP)—A day of complete rest was given the Columbia University football squad yesterday, the second it spent here en route to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford.

The players and Coach Lou Little were taken on a three-hour sightseeing trip to visit the famous San Xavier mission in the desert. A Christmas tree party was held in the dining room of their hotel with presents for all last night.

One of the porters from the Columbia's Pullman cars donned a Santa Claus outfit, substituting for Charles Barrett, veteran trainer, who was forced to bed by an attack of grippe.

Barrett will be back on the job tomorrow when the Lions resume work in the University of Arizona stadium tomorrow. Only a light workout is scheduled but stiff scrimmages are on Little's program Tuesday and Wednesday. The team will "taper off" training thereafter.

WESTERN GAS DROPS 5-3 GAME TO HARBOR

FIELD GOAL GIVES NORTH 3-0 TRIUMPH

Although Pitchers Farris and Mallett held Newport Harbor to four hits, Newport Harbor's baseball club defeated Western Gas, 5-3, in a non-league game at Costa Mesa yesterday. Both teams are members of the Inter-City Winter league but are "vacationing" through the Christmas holidays.

The Harboretes put over a cluster of three runs in the last of the fifth. Willcutt walked, Clemens singled, Welch was safe on an error and the bases were full without an out. Beatty struck out but Calhoun singled and two runs pattered across. They proved the winning ones.

Western Gas, a Santa Ana club, rallied in the first of the ninth. Trailing 5-2, the Santa Anans scored when "Bombo" Koral and Cook the doubles, but Miller fled out and Maloof popped out to end the game.

We finally decided on this plan, made another detour, left the horse to feed in a little draw and started the stalk, the last seventy-five or eighty yards on hands and knees. Some of the rams either had moved, as is often the case, or we hadn't marked the spot exactly for one. Ram had come higher up the hill. He saw us and started to run, the others following and they all bunched up, probably 150-160 yards away.

URBAN DEFEATS COLLEGE GRID SALEM ELEVEN EXPERTS FAVOR BY 18-0 SCORE RULE CHANGES

BY LEO FISCHER
(I.N.S. Sports Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Urban, academy of Los Angeles defeated Salem, Mass., high school, New England's prep champions, 18 to 0, in the only inter-sectional game of its kind here this season at Wrigley field yesterday.

In the first quarter Jesse Urban half, ambled 28 yards around end to score. The conversion attempt was blocked. In the second period Campbell intercepted Peckham's pass and went 31 yards to a touchdown. Woodward failed to convert.

"Tex" Harris, fullback, passed to Howard Ward, end, in the third quarter for the final Urban score, climaxing a 42-yard drive. Woodward again missed the conversion.

In the third period the Witches put on a drive that carried them to the Urban 13-yard line, but there they were held for downs, and did not again threaten.

Football fans, they declare, are growing bored with the type of game presented on so many college gridirons, in which one touchdown is a big afternoon's work, and a couple of scores almost unheard of. They point to the statement by Grantland Rice, one of the country's foremost critics, in which he states:

"Football set a new record for close, low-score and no-score games. For example, Stanford, picked to represent the Far West in the Rose Bowl, scored only 30 points in the six of its leading games—an average of only five points to the game."

"Minnesota scored only 26 points in six games. Notre Dame was blanked six times, while Northwestern suffered seven Saturdays of scoreless sorrow. Centenary, with one of the best teams in the Southwest, ran across three scoreless ties in a row."

One prominent college coach, an early arrival for the meeting, pointed to this statement and then asked:

"Here, for instance, we find Babe Ruth, panjandrum of baseball (don't you love that?) intimating he will not hold up Jake Ruppert, N.Y. Yankee owner, on a new contract. Babe's Santa Claus to Jake is good, for Jake is rated only about $70,000,000 in the financially blue book."

"Yeah," said the home run basher, as he finished making an electrical record for broadcasting. "I'm gonna give Old Jake a break this time. Guess I'll let him off with about 40 grand."

The Babe flicked the ash off a big black cigar with a nonchalant finger as if $40,000 were merely coffee and cake money, and wandered out to get a price on a new foreign car.

And here we find the three magi of wrestling—Jacques Curley, Paul Bowser and Sam Parks—burying the hatchet and not in one another's skulls for a change. The masters of the grunt, groan and grimace racket got together today and decided to pool their resources.

This means that Jim Londos, Jim Browning et al. will be able to toss one another out of the ring hereafter at so much per toss and on a friendly basis. Just a big happy Yuletide family.

In the third quarter Joe Buonanno, Brown back, slipped around the left side of the line for 35 yards to the Southern 30-yard line where the ball was lost on downs. In the fourth period, play was confined to midfield.

And Ray Impellittere, the American Carnera, is going to emulate Prime by meeting all comers in a tour of the hinterland. His manager wants him to become "knock-out-conscious." Will the small towns please prepare those tanks?

And from Quakerville comes word that Penn will stick to the Gates Plan, with reservations. Old grads were ready to throw a fit until they reread the reservations which, while saving face, take the hinges off the Gates Plan. The Yuletide joker is that spring training will be okayed and the boys will even get scholastic credit for it! Even "Chick" Meehan laughed when he read that one.

THE WINNER

Little Paul Runyan (below) of White Plains, N.Y., received a Christmas gift of $1000 today as a result of his victory in the $4000 Pasadena Open Golf tournament. He finished five strokes ahead of Mac Smith.

MAC SMITH AND HORTON SMITH, SECOND, THIRD

PASADENA, Dec. 25.—(UP)—Blazing the winter gold trail of California golf, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N.Y., won the $4000 Pasadena Open Golf tournament with a brilliant 72-hole aggregate of 282 yesterday.

Two under par, Runyan's four rounds were the more remarkable in that they included a 75, four over, for his morning round.

His aggregate by rounds, was 68, 67, 71, 71-282.

Runyan finished a comfortable three strokes ahead of Mac Donald Smith, who had 285, and Horton Smith was third with 286. Denison Shute, current British Open champion, was fourth with 288, followed by Jimmy Thomson of Long Beach, Calif., and Harry Cooper of Chicago, with 289.

Bill Mehlhorn of Brooklyn and Fred Morrison of Pasadena were next with 290, with Leo Diesel, "Wiffy" Cox and Olin Dutra bunching with 291.

Plays Cool Golf

Runyan fought off a heavy load of last-round pressure to coast in ahead. He approached the afternoon round with a 54-hole aggregate of 21, two under par, realizing that par golf probably would suffice the rest of the way. From the outset, however, he fell into misadventures from which he was extricated only by cool, perfect emergency golf.

On the third, his drive found a muddy rough and the ball rested in a deep heel print. His spoon shot flew straight to the green and landed eight feet away to drop a minute later for a birdie three.

He went over on the 12th and approached the 15th tee in even par, needing only a par five, a three and two fours. His drive barreled 200 yards short and a wide trap barred his approach. Instead of playing safe and short, Runyan swung a full spoon in a bold play for the pin. It slipped into the trap and under a low hanging tree. He exploded out to within two feet of the pin, then missed the tiny spot to take a par five.

Runyan Earns $1000

He parred the 16th and short 17th and the match was over when he took his tee shot out of a divot hole on the 18th fairway and laid it 10 feet away from the pin. He missed again for the birdie, but his 71 was good enough and to spare.

Runyan earned $1000, Mac Donald Smith $800, Horton Smith $400, Shute $350, Cooper and Thomson $275 each, Mehlhorn and Morrison $187.50 each, Diesel, Cox and Dutra $133.33 each, and the next 10 players $50 each.

Expect Federal Approval Of City Hall In 30 Days

CONSTRUCTION MAY START IN SEVEN WEEKS

Predicting that specifications on the new Santa Ana city hall would be approved in Washington D. C. within 30 days and that actual work on the new building, authorized by the voters last week, would be started thereafter as soon as the contract could be awarded, Mayor Paul Witmer announced today that he has been negotiating with government officials in Los Angeles.

City Auditor Lloyd Banks is now busily engaged in filling out a large group of questionnaires, financial statements and specifications demanded by the officials in charge of the federal public works administration, from which the $100,000 to build the new city hall will be secured. These materials will be submitted to the regional directors in Los Angeles within a week and forwarded direct to the national capital for approval.

Witmer estimated that within two or three weeks after final approval is given in Washington, the contract will have been awarded and work started on the new building at the former city hall site at Third and Main streets. Architects are now at work preparing tentative sketches and will appear at a special meeting of the city council tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. to present their qualifications for the work. It is expected that one will be selected and given authority to prepare comprehensive details for the new building.

Under the provisions of the proposition approved at the election last Tuesday, Santa Ana will borrow $100,000 from the government and pay back $70,000, the remaining $30,000 being a donation. The bonds for the work will not be offered for sale until this gift has been definitely promised.

The bond issue required a two-thirds majority for passage and received 83 votes more than necessary, according to unofficial totals compiled after the election.

Although no definite decision has been made regarding the type of building to be erected, it is believed that the city council will approve a two-story business building with full basement. It will have considerably more floor space and facilities than the former building, which was severely damaged in the March earthquake and torn down.

The city offices have been housed temporarily in the Santora building at Second and Broadway. The move for a new building was started by a group of business men formed into the Santa Ana Civic Affairs association, which presented a petition signed by nearly 3000 persons, asking for an election to decide whether the city should vote bonds to build the city hall at Third and Main streets.

H. S. ENGINEERS ENJOY TRIP TO BIG BEAR LAKE

Despite the light covering of snow on the ground at Big Bear Lake, members of the Santa Ana High School Engineering club returned Friday night from their annual outing in the mountains with exciting stories of winter sports.

The group of 23 club members, Adviser and Mrs. Charles Tibbets, and daughter, Frances Tibbets, left Santa Ana Monday for the winter resort by bus. The five day vacation was spent at Stratton's camp while frequent side trips were taken to scenic points in the valley. The boys had constructed three toboggans and four pairs of skis and enjoyed all varieties of winter sports.

Those who made the trip besides the club adviser and family included Calvin Breeding, Ray Clark, Francis Davis, Louis Holmes, Robert Kelly, Norman Pyatt, Howard Quiggle, Dale Brooks, Wright, Shelley Horton, Philip Cook, Charles Koffman, Jess Ojeda, Fred Beasley, Myron Hilton, Louis Kemper, Bob Cone and associate members Rodney Engle, Jack Sheets, Ray Bush, Dick Clark and Bob Scoville.

CHAINS NECESSARY

Construction work will be encountered on the road between Bishop, California, and Reno, Nevada, at the following points: Just beyond Paradise Camp, from the summit of the Sherwin Grade to Tom's Place, at the June Lake Junction, and at Mono Lake. Motorists driving to Reno either via Sacramento or Bishop are advised to carry chains.

PEAK TRAFFIC LOAD HERE IS IN AFTERNOON

Showing conclusively that peak traffic loads on Santa Ana streets are carried in the period from noon to 6:30 p.m., a new 24-hour traffic census on principal intersections is nearing completion by the municipal crew of workers employed under the CWA.

In all other traffic checks outside the main business district, First and Main streets had the highest count of motor vehicles for the 24-hour day. The average weekday total was 18,375 cars, an average of 765 cars per hour, while the Sunday figures showed 15,289 cars.

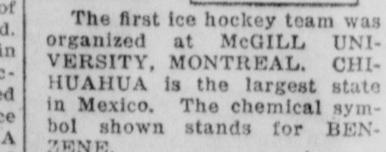

Seventeenth and Main streets was second in point of volume, showing a high total of 14,000 on Sunday and 13,665 on weekdays, an average of 583 cars per hour. Seventeenth and Broadway, another important corner picked to show east and west flow of traffic through Santa Ana, had Sunday figures of 6966 and weekday totals of 7820.

For the 24-hour surveys, four shifts of men were used, each tabulating for six hours. On First and Main streets, the Sunday total divided into shifts showed that 821 cars were counted from 12:30 a.m. to 6:30 a.m.; 4103 cars from 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; 6656 cars from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and 3709 cars from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

An attempt to get a comprehensive view of Christmas shopping is underway this weekend by the crews. From 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and today, the period of greatest shopping activity, figures are being compiled at Fourth and Main streets and at every street entering the city. This is expected to show the increase in traffic over previously computed totals for the corner intersection and will also indicate where the principal sources of buying power are located. Through-city traffic on the main highways has already been accurately checked and will be used to determine the difference caused by Christmas shoppers. A cordon of men has been stationed around the city to check the 15 entrances. Every car entering and leaving the city will be counted.

S. A. CHILDREN DO THEIR SHARE

Response of nearly 2000 big-hearted Santa Ana children in contributing to the success of the big Register-Broadway benefit resulted in the avalanche of food of all description, toys, clothes and other articles, only part of which can be seen in the picture below. As much or more food, jellies, jams, candies, toys, etc., as are seen in the pile below are behind the stack and cannot be seen in the picture. In front and to the left is Manager Les Fountain of the Broadway theater who engineered the show. In the rear is Ensign and Mrs. I. S. Torgerson, Salvation Army officials who distributed the goods to needy families, making their Christmas brighter. In the picture below is shown the big crowd of children that jammed the house.

NAME PEAK IN MOUNTAINS FOR J. E. PLEASANTS

A most unusual honor has been bestowed upon J. E. Pleasants, Orange county's only known surviving '49er, with the naming of a mountain peak in Orange county after him, it was learned today.

Some time ago the Orange County Historical society adopted a resolution asking the government to name a peak in the Santa Ana mountains due east of Orange "Pleasants Peak" in honor of the pioneer.

S. M. Davis, secretary of the society, received a letter from John J. Cameron, secretary of the United States Geographic Board, informing him that at its recent December meeting that the new name of the peak is J. E. Pleasants, who has been associated with the peak since 1860.

Change in the name eliminates one of several "Sugarloaf" peaks in the vicinity, there being another of similar name at San Juan Hot Springs. The peak named for Pleasants is located three miles south of Santa Ana canyon at the head of Ladd canyon, a branch of Silverado canyon.

It is seldom that a mountain peak, river, stream, etc., is named after a person living and it is for this reason that the tribute is a distinction, according to society officials.

The peak is 4005 in altitude and is in the same section where Pleasants has made his home for so many years. He lives now in Santa Ana canyon.

Pleasants, believed to be Orange county's only living '49er, was born in Missouri in 1839 and came to Southern California with his father and brothers as part of an ox-team train across the plains. Pleasants was the youngest in the party of 120 persons, but he rode a pony most of the way across the plains.

PAVEMENT SLIPS

Pavement on the Coast Route four miles south of Chualar in Monterey county between Gonzales and Salinas has slipped. A detour of 8.5 miles has been provided around this section. It is reported to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

HONORED
J. E. Pleasants, below, believed to be Orange county's only surviving '49er, has been signalized by having a mountain peak in Orange county named for him. The peak, formerly known as "Sugarloaf," is situated in the Santa Ana mountains near his home.

TALBERT

TALBERT, Dec. 25.—Max Hoepner has leased the Seward ranch, north of Talbert, Members of the Espinoza family, who have occupied the house, have moved to one of the Talbert houses.

H. S. Magamatsu, who has been farming at Bolsa, has taken the Mary Levingood acreage in Talbert and is having his buildings moved there.

The former Joe Parsons house on Talbert Boulevard has been moved across the lot and now faces Bushard street.

OILING AT INYOKERN

Oiling operations will be encountered on the road from Inyokern, Kern county, to Trona, San Bernardino county, starting at Inyokern and continuing to the San Bernardino county line, advises the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Negotiations looking toward the consolidation of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and the Santa Ana Merchants' association, apparently have failed and there will be no joining of the two organizations at this time, according to a statement released today by Walter Swanberger, president of the Merchants' association.

The announcement came after about two weeks of maneuvering between committees appointed by presidents of the two organizations. A formal announcement regarding collapse of the merger plan is expected to be made by the board of directors of the Merchants' association following a meeting Wednesday noon.

The movement to consolidate the two organizations was launched at a joint meeting held about two weeks ago. Following a discussion on problems to be met in case the merger was effected, committees were appointed to draft a working plan which is believed to have been presented to the organizations.

President Otto Haan of the chamber appointed Hugh J. Lowe, chairman, and Charles Chapman and Fred Newcom as members of his committee, while Swanberger appointed James N. Harding, chairman, and Gilbert P. Campbell and Jerry Hall members of the merchants committee.

Consolidation of the two bodies apparently was favored by directors of the two bodies at the joint meeting. It is believed that the point in issue was whether or not A. Cavall, manager of the Merchants' association, would be retained on the secretarial staff to work with George Raymer, chamber secretary.

Construction work necessitating three detours will be encountered on U. S. Highway 101 starting at a point 12 miles south of San Luis Obispo and continuing north for nine miles, according to a report received by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Despite the light covering of snow on the ground at Big Bear Lake members of the Santa Ana High School Engineering club returned Friday night from their annual outing in the mountains with exciting stories of winter sports.

The group of 23 club members, Adviser and Mrs. Charles Tibbets, and daughter, Frances Tibbets, left Santa Ana Monday for the winter resort by bus. The five day vacation was spent at Stratton's camp while frequent side trips were taken to scenic points in the valley. The boys had constructed three toboggans and four pairs of skis and enjoyed all varieties of winter sports.

Those who made the trip besides the club adviser and family included Calvin Breeding, Ray Clark, Francis Davis, Louis Holmes, Robert Kelly, Norman Pyatt, Howard Quiggle, Dale Smith, Brooks Wright, Shelley Horton, Philip Cook, Charles Koffman, Jess Ojeda, Fred Beasley, Myron Hilton, Louis Kemper, Bob Cone and associate members Rodney Engle, Jack Shells, Ray Bush, Dick Clark and Bob Scoville.

CHAINS NECESSARY

Construction work will be encountered on the road between Bishop, California, and Reno, Nevada, at the following points: Just beyond Paradise Camp, from the summit of the Sherwin Grade to Tom's Place, at the June Lake Junction, and at Mono Lake. Motorists driving to Reno either via Sacramento or Bishop are advised to carry chains.

Showing conclusively that peak traffic loads on Santa Ana streets are carried in the period from noon to 6:30 p.m., a new 24-hour traffic census on principal intersections is nearing completion by the municipal crew of workers employed under the CWA.

As in all other traffic checks outside the main business district, First and Main streets had the highest count of motor vehicles for the 24-hour day.

The average weekday total was 18,375 cars, an average of 765 cars per hour, while the Sunday figures showed 15,229 cars.

Seventeenth and Main streets were second in point of volume, showing a high total of 14,000 on Sunday and 13,665 on weekdays.

An average of 583 cars per hour, Seventeenth and Broadway, another important corner plowed to show east and west flow of traffic through Santa Ana, had Sunday figures of 6966 and weekday totals of 7829.

For the 24-hour surveys, four shifts of men were used, each tabulating for six hours. On First and Main streets, the Sunday total divided into shifts showed that 821 cars were counted from 12:30 a.m. to 6:30 a.m.; 4108 cars from 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; 6656 cars from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and 3709 cars from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

An attempt to get a comprehensive view of Christmas shopping is underway this weekend by the crews. From 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and today, the period of greatest shopping activity, figures are being compiled at Fourth and Main streets and at every street entering the city. This is expected to show the increase in traffic over previously computed totals for the center intersection and will also indicate where the principal sources of buying power are located.

Through-city traffic on the main highways has already been accurately checked and will be used to determine the difference caused by Christmas shoppers. A cordon of men has been stationed around the city to check the entrances. Every car entering and leaving the city will be counted.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Dec. 25.—As far as the police are concerned Christmas celebration started Saturday night in Anaheim and resulted in arrests of three intoxicants. Adam Wingbusch of Buena Park, Frank Vine of Fullerton and Manuel Aguirre of 214 East La Palma street. All three were arrested at Anton's beer garden, and were locked up.

Too excessive Christmas cheer made the former two claim to be members of the famous Hill Billes before they were locked up.

For the 24-hour surveys, four shifts of men were used, each tabulating for six hours. On First and Main streets, the Sunday total divided into shifts showed that 821 cars were counted from 12:30 a.m. to 6:30 a.m.; 4108 cars from 6:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; 6656 cars from 12:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. and 3709 cars from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

MERGER OF TWO ORGANIZATIONS DOOMED, CLAIM

Negotiations looking toward the consolidation of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce and the Santa Ana Merchants' association, divorced for about a year, apparently have failed and there will be no joining of the two organizations at this time, according to a statement released today by Walter Swanberger, president of the Merchants' association.

The announcement came after about two weeks of maneuvering between committees appointed by presidents of the two organizations. A formal announcement regarding collapse of the merger plan is expected to be made by the board of directors of the Merchants' association following a meeting Wednesday noon.

The movement to consolidate the two organizations was launched at a joint meeting held about two weeks ago. Following a discussion on problems to be met in case the merger was effected, committees were appointed to draft a working plan which is believed to have been presented to the organizations.

President Otto Haan of the chamber appointed Hugh J. Lowe, chairman, and Charles Chapman and Fred Newcomer as members of his committee, while Swanberger appointed James N. Harding, chairman, and Gilbert P. Campbell and Jerry Hall members of the merchants committee.

Consolidation of the two bodies apparently was favored by directors of the two bodies at the joint meeting. It is believed that the point in issue was whether or not A. Cavall, manager of the Merchants' association, would be retained on the secretarial staff to work with George Rayner, chamber secretary.

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS!

YOU'LL believe this when you compare the current model Dodge with new models already announced . . . in price . . . in safety and economy . . . in style . . . in dependability.

Into the lowest price goes Dodge cars . . . increased prices in new models, announced, puts Dodge right down with the lowest in price . . .

not $50 or $100 higher, but at prices that challenge the entire field of low-priced cars.

Not lowered quality standards but this year's tremendous increase in sales, which is the envy of the industry, have made these low prices possible. Dodge high quality and Dodge dependability are still there and will remain there.

Merry Christmas in a new Dodge. What could be merrier?

Old Family Homestead
Resounds to Gayety
Of Reunion

In the old family home at 1210 North Ross street where they romped as children, the sons and daughters of the late Judge Z. B. West today are enjoying a reunion beneath the home roof, gathered with their immediate families and a few close relatives as dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bertrand West Jr., the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Yarnell, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. West.

In planning for the family event, the hosts decided upon a mid-day dinner hour in order to allow plenty of time for the journeys to and from the Southland cities where some of the guests reside.

The home is gay with holly and Christmas wreaths with a few sprays of mistletoe in various strategic points. A galm effect is heightened by the sparkling tree around which the afternoon's sociability is to center. There the brothers and sisters and the aunts and cousins will have their family gift exchange.

Receiving with the three host couples is Miss Betty West, daughter of the Z. Bertrand Wests, and guests include Miss Stella Groff of this city; Mrs. Marguerite West Hill and son Winston, of Corona; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Langford and son, Victor Jr., of Pasadena; Miss Ada Ethel Leake and Mrs. Ada Brown of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wright and Mrs. Wright's mother, Mrs. McFarland, of Huntington Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. West of this city were absent from the family circle as they went to Decanso to spend the holiday weekend with Mrs. West's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stephenson.

Couples were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Lagasse, Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Margeson and young grandson, Billy Young, and the three young people of the home, the Misses Lu and Mary Pomeroy and Van Pomeroy of Los Angeles.

For there was ice cream galore and there were crisp sugar cookies to be crushed delightfully between little white teeth before the afternoon finally came to a close.

Mrs. Ethel Flockton, the Day Nursery matron, was there with her little flock, as was her assistant, Mrs. Mary Jarrett, while serving as the hostess group were the Misses Geraldine Gilbert, Helena Bailey, Mary Schrock, Barbara Rowland, Nancy White and Roberta Tuthill.

Assisting them were the members of Ebell's advisory board, Mrs. Emrys D. White, Mrs. Fred Rowland and Mrs. John Tessmann, and the Day Nursery board, Mrs. O. Winckler, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. Fred Newcomb Jr., Mrs. Rowland P. Yeagle, Mrs. John Newman, Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. Hugh Plum, Mrs. J. E. Liebig and Miss Effie Douglas.

Refreshments of orange juice, cookies and tea were served at intervals during the afternoon. Assisting with various phases of the hospitality were Mrs. Edith Getty, Mrs. Nannie Bell Lester, Mrs. Elta Sweet, Mrs. Ella Stowe, Mrs. Charles Hurd, Mrs. Homer Bomby and Mrs. C. H. Janisch, an old friend of the family who is visiting here from St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Stowe made a pretty ceremony of cutting the handsome wedding cake, which with its miniature bride and bridegroom figures centered a large table.

CHURCH IN THEFT SUIT

TACOMA, Wash.—One Lutheran church sued another for the return of pianos, garden implements, records, alleged stolen without knowledge of members.

DRIVING north to Newberg, Oregon, Fred A. Youngs, Miss Evelyn Hunton and Ward Hunton, all of 1018 West Sixth street, were among the many relatives and friends present for the golden wedding anniversary celebration last week of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Youngs, parents of Fred A. Youngs.

Friends crowded the Youngs home in Newberg for the celebration, and Miss Hunton played the Wedding March as Mr. and Mrs. Youngs plighted their vows at a reconfirmation ceremony. Ward Hunton gave two whistling solos during the program, accompanied by his sister, and Fred Youngs played jig numbers for a short skit, also accompanied by Miss Hunton.

Although the elderly couple have lived in Newberg for 29 years, they have many friends in Santa Ana and spent a winter recently in this city, living at 2078 North Bush street.

The three Santa Anans who drove north for the homecoming visit are expected to return in a few days.

Camp Pay Checks
Fail to Arrive

ORANGE, Dec. 25.—There were 150 disappointed men and boys at Sierra labor camp No. 32 in the Santa Ana canyon Saturday when pay checks which were expected to arrive did not materialize in spite of State Forest Ranger Joe Scherman's attempts to locate them. However, the men enjoyed Christmas dinner which included turkey and dressing, cranberry sauce, salad, mashed potatoes, gravy, candies, nuts and dessert, according to Ranger Denny Hackthorne. There are 100 men in the camp from Orange county and 50 from Los Angeles county.

SCHOOL ENDS CHRISTMAS
PORTLAND, Ore.—Many small districts and some city schools in Oregon will operate only until Christmas this year, it is indicated as tax delinquencies reduce the funds for school operation.

MR. AND MRS. F. A. STOWE

The holiday season brought cause for special celebration to Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Stowe, who on Saturday, December 23 observed their golden wedding anniversary. In the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin K. Stowe, 1125 South Partition street, open house was held throughout the day, and many friends participated in the happy occasion.

Celebration Marks
Couple's Golden
Wedding Day

Fifty years ago in Tanhassen township, Martin county, Minn., a wedding ceremony took place in a wintry setting of snow and ice, uniting in marriage Miss Hattie Blencoe and Fred A. Stowe, Saturday, in typical California style, with flowers and sunshine greatly in evidence, Mr. and Mrs. Stowe observed their golden wedding anniversary.

The home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin K. Stowe, 1125 South Partition street, was setting for the pleasant observance Saturday. Open house was held, and many were the friends dropping in to share in the celebration throughout the day and evening. Guests included members of the American Legion Auxiliary Mothers' club, in which organization Mrs. Stowe is an active worker.

Blue and gold was the color scheme observed in the many bouquets arranged throughout the rooms of the home. With her pretty frock, Mrs. Fred A. Stowe wore a corsage of gardenias, and those who assisted with hostess duties throughout the day had corsage bouquets of blue and gold blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rose and Mrs. Ella Stowe, who attended the wedding ceremony 50 years ago, were present for Saturday's celebration. With Mr. and Mrs. Stowe they recalled the wedding day December 23, 1883, and the old homestead in Tanhassen township where the young people pledged their troth. They started housekeeping in Fairmont, Minn., and lived in that city until 1918, when they came to Santa Ana to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Stowe have four children, Miss Lettie Stowe of Maywood, Calif., Mrs. Fred A. Reepke of Rochester, Minn.; Franklin K. Stowe, and Kenneth F. Stowe of Santa Ana. Their grandchildren include Miss Dorothy Roopke of Rochester, Minn.; Harold Stowe, Jack Stowe and Robert Stowe, of Santa Ana.

Refreshments of orange juice, cookies and tea were served at intervals during the afternoon. Assisting with various phases of the hospitality were Mrs. Edith Getty, Mrs. Nannie Bell Lester, Mrs. Etta Sweet, Mrs. Ella Stowe, Mrs. Charles Hurd, Mrs. Homer Bomby and Mrs. C. H. Janisch, an old friend of the family who is visiting here from St. Paul, Minn.

Mrs. Stowe made a pretty ceremony of cutting the handsome wedding cake, which with its miniature bride and bridegroom figure centered a large table.

Day Nursery Children
Have Glorious Time
At Ebell Party

That special joy of Christmas which lies in making happiness for others, was experienced to the utmost Saturday afternoon by the generous young girls who comprise Santa Ana Girls' Ebell society, when they presided at a Christmas party for thirty or more little children of the Ebell Day Nursery.

And if the young hostesses were happy, it is a heart-warming thought to think of the joy of those children as they romped about the pretty Christmas tree which had been decked for them with jeweled baubles, glittering lights and showers of silver rain.

There was a peanut hunt in which the fun waxed uproarious, and there was a short program when Jack and Richard Northrop, pupils of the Visel studio, gave readings to entertain the youngsters.

But the best time of all was the visit of Santa Claus, and everyone knows without telling, just what that meant. For he had presents for every single one of those wide-eyed children, and he had candy, and he had rose-cheeked apples, and he had oranges and bags of nuts. The pack he bore seemed inexhaustible, but there were other good things to come.

For there was ice cream galore and there were crisp sugar cookies to be crushed delightfully between little white teeth before the afternoon finally came to a close.

Old Family Homestead
Resounds to Gayety
Of Reunion

In the old family home at 1210 North Ross street where they romped as children, the sons and daughters of the late Judge Z. B. West today are enjoying a reunion beneath the home roof, gathered with their immediate families and a few close relatives as dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bertrand West Jr., the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Yarnell, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin G. West.

In planning for the family event, the hosts decided upon a mid-day dinner hour in order to allow plenty of time for the journeys to and from the Southland cities where some of the guests reside.

The home is gay with holly and Christmas wreaths with a few sprays of mistletoe in various strategic points. A gaily effect is heightened by the sparkling tree around which the afternoon's social gathering is to center. There the brothers and sisters and the aunts and cousins will have their family gift exchange.

Receiving with the three host couples is Miss Betty West, daughter of the Z. Bertrand Wests, and guests include Miss Stella Groff of this city; Mrs. Marguerite West Hill and son Winston of Corona; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Langford and son, Victor Jr., of Pasadena; Miss Ada Ethel Leeks and Mrs. Ada Brown of Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wright and Mrs. Wright's mother, Mrs. McFarland, of Huntingdon Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. West of this city were absent from the family circle as they went to Descanso to spend the holiday weekend with Mrs. West's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stephenson.

And if the young hostesses were happy, it is a heart-warming thought to think of the joy of those children as they romped about the pretty Christmas tree which had been decked for them with jeweled baubles, glittering lights and showers of silver rain.

There was a peanut hunt in which the fun waxed uproarious, and there was a short program when Jack and Richard Northrop, pupils of the Visel studio, gave readings to entertain the youngsters.

But the best time of all was the visit of Santa Claus, and everyone knows without telling, just what that meant. For he had presents for every single one of those wide-eyed children, and he had candy, and he had rose-cheeked apples, and he had oranges and bags of nuts. The pack he bore seemed inexhaustible, but there were other good things to come.

For there was ice cream galore and there were crisp sugar cookies to be crushed delightfully between little white teeth before the afternoon finally came to a close.

Mrs. Ethel Flockton, the Day Nursery matron, was there with her little flock, as was her assistant, Mrs. Mary Jarrett, while serving as the hostess group were the Misses Geraldine Gilbert, Helene Bailey, Mary Schrock, Barbara Rowland, Nancy White and Roberta Tuthill.

Friends crowded the Youngs' home in Newberg for the celebration, and Miss Hunter played the Wedding March as Mr. and Mrs. Youngs pledged their vows at a reaffirmation ceremony. Ward Hunton gave two whistling solos during the program, accompanied by his sister, and Fred Youngs played jig numbers for a short skirt also accompanied by Miss Hunter.

Although the elderly couple have lived in Newberg for 29 years, they have many friends in Santa Ana and spent a winter recently in this city, living at 2073 North Bush street.

The three Santa Anans who drove north for the homecoming visit are expected to return in a few days.

A Reader's Suggestion for a Sunshus Tea or Luncheon Menu.

A simple but delicious party lunch is composed of pineapple ice, topped with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry. With the sherbet serve a piece of good home-made cake or two fancy cookies, salted peanuts or almonds, tea or coffee.

A hostess serving a simple and simply lovely menu like the above ought to be awarded the diamond-set rolling pin! Who among us has not agonized over the elaborate rat-a-tat luncheons given by our well-meaning friends...the only consolation I have is that I take off potato pancakes...the recipe treasured belonging of a German mother-in-law of a young friend.

Family Group Motors
To Inglewood for Holiday Dinner

Although individual families of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allen held their own home celebrations of Christmas last night, there was a happy family reunion today for which all the brothers and sisters and the "in-laws" together with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Z. Bertrand West Jr., the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Allen and young son, Louis Allen Jr., Mrs. Marie Fowler of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Northrup and sons Jack and Richard, Costa Mesa.

All the traditional deckings of the Yule tide were in place to add gayety and cheer to the occasion, and a roast turkey menu was enjoyed at noon by Mr. and Mrs. Condon, their young son and daughter, Tommy and Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Allen and young son, Louis Allen Jr., Mrs. Marie Fowler of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Northrup and sons Jack and Richard, Costa Mesa.

Mix the batter part in the order listed. Prepare the fruits and mix them through the batter if you wish or after putting buttered paper in the pans, put first a thin layer of batter, then a sprinkling of fruit, and continue in this fashion until the materials have been used up. Bake the cakes in a very slow oven, from 11-2 to 3 hours, depending on size of pan.

A very thin slice of fruit cake has a caloric value of 225.

WASHINGTON
By George Durne

REVERSE
Republican strategy has been pretty well reversed in the last few days.

That's why you saw those stories quoting G. O. P. leaders in both houses of Congress as promising to go along with the Roosevelt administration on fundamental policies of relief and recovery.

All the stories mean is that the Republicans have decided to pull into their shells for a while longer.

The opposition generals figure F. D. R. is still too popular with the people for them to get away with any open offensive.

During the next couple of months the Republicans will be using periscopes and shooting around corners.

But don't get the idea their opposing publicity won't be smacking home every day. It simply will be concealed and appear publicly (if you can get around that paradox) as emanating from this society and that league.

Republicans in many sections were disappointed at the way one of their recent blasts fell rather short.

This was the adroitly phrased pamphlet "Let's Look at the Record" which picked up all the administration catch-phrases and tossed them back with reverse punch.

It was decided this booklet did not get the proper play because it was issued by the Republican National committee. Ergo, said the boys, let's do it by sleight-of-hand in the future.

FACtions
One factor hurting Republican publicity at present is the inevitable inside fight to gain party control.

That group commonly known as the "Old Guard" wants to pry Everett Sanders loose as Chairman of the National Committee. One faction would like to see Walter E. Edge of New Jersey in his place. Another favors former Senator Jim Watson of Indiana.

This scrap got so near the surface the other day that Edge issued a public statement denying he aspired to further office. Nevertheless he added that he "naturally" would "always be ready to render to it (the party) any consistent service."

Other complications result from the jockeying around of those who want the Republican presidential nomination in 1936. Mills, Snell and Wadsworth, all of New York, are supposed to be looking in that direction. McNary of Oregon is said to have a similar hankering. Edge himself no doubt would respond to a call for "consistent service."

Very much in the background, but still potent, is Herbert Hoover.

Not a word comes out of his Palo Alto home. His agents here keep him well informed on every move.

BANANAS
All is well with our lads in the Army. They can buy bananas at the post commissary once more.

Several weeks back, in line with the "buy American" movement, an order went out to quartermaster officers forbidding the purchase of foreign-produced goods.

This put the kibosh on imported sardines, olives and the like—but most of all on bananas.

Ministers from the Central American countries were up in arms. The yellow fruit represented a principal export for some of them. They wanted to call at the White House immediately and protest.

Instead they were persuaded to hold off for a while. A very clever and able gentleman got hold of some of the right ears. Without publicity an order went out modifying the original restriction insofar as bananas were concerned.

There are those who wonder just where the United Fruit company figured in all this.

LOST

That executive order making the powers of the National Labor Board official would have been issued several days earlier but for one thing.

Senator Bob Wagner of New York, who is chairman of the Board, lost a draft of the order out of his pocket while enroute to get President Roosevelt's signature.

It was all very embarrassing to Wagner when he got in the President's office and couldn't find the order. (A newspaperman picked it up on the lobby floor but failed to get its full significance. He threw it away.)

TACKS

Almost all of the volunteer boards and agencies have proved ineffectual.

The Consumers' Board and the Industrial Advisory Board of NRA are cases in point. A group of unpaid industrialists disbanded after getting nowhere fast trying to advise AAA.

Reorganization of these and other functions of the Recovery program under the National Emergency Council was the administration answer. It was decided paid and centralized workers would get more done.

The National Labor Board suffered from the same ailment. Up to the time Mr. Roosevelt outlined their duties in an executive order and approved all previous actions they had been functioning in rather hit-or-miss fashion.

Policy meetings weren't held regularly. When they were, all of the members couldn't be counted on to show up.

Of course, as is obvious, the President "blanketed" the Board with a formal definition of duties for the immediate purpose of helping to win the impending court battle with the Weirton Steel company. He also wanted to get the Board down to brass tacks.

NOTES

Chic Sales is expected to join the administration any day, now that this "nullification" obtained the tacit approval of high Federal Reserve authorities before they decide to act.

"CONSPIRACY"

Since various attempts to force the New York City utility companies to reduce their monthly minimum charges have failed someone is apparently organizing "passive resistance" among consumers.

The idea is for consumers to ignore their monthly bills and subsequent dunning letters and to pay only when the customary three months' period of grace expires and they are threatened with discontinuance of service. The movement is spreading in residential districts but company investigators have been able to prove a "conspiracy."

UTILITIES

Sentiment is slowly growing among utility executives that government hostility will not be appeased until financial management setups are radically revised.

formation service to answer any question that may be put about governmental activities . . . The first draft was sent in turn to each of the many new setups for improvement and addition . . . Questions and answers compiled thus far approach encyclopedic proportions.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

BUDGET

New York sound moneyites have returned from dollar stabilization to budget balancing as an immediate objective. They know they are licked on the first but they still have hopes of curtailing the spending spree—especially such spending as might give the government a voice in business management.

Their activities will soft-pedal alarmist tactics. They will focus instead on the long-term disadvantages of continually spending more than you take in.

They are encouraged by the rise in Lewis Douglas's stock and they secretly hope that Henry Morgenthau, Jr., can be converted into a valuable ally. Insiders whisper that Earle Balfe—former Seligman partner—has been doing his stuff along these lines since he went to Washington as Morgenthau's assistant. Of course Congress and the President may have other ideas.

ECONOMY

As recently noted in our Washington column the National Economic League has taken a new lease on life and will be back in the thick of the budget fight. Its sponsors would like to stage a new national campaign to sell the idea but its funds are too limited to get far with this plan unless it draws a windfall from interested sources. It may if the outlook seems sufficiently bright.

The conservatives feel they have one big advantage here they didn't have in the currency scrap. That's the fact that the President himself has declared for a balanced budget. It's just a case of proving there should be one budget instead of two—if they can.

DIRECTORS

The New York banks have made the startling discovery that one section of the Glass Act is toothless. Their lawyers find that no penalties are provided for failure to comply with provisions requiring elimination of investment bankers from their boards of directors and reduction of their total board members to twenty-five.

Then there's another out for the investment bankers. The law states they cannot serve as commercial bank directors if their principal occupation is dealing in securities. Investment house partners who wish to retain bank contacts claim this doesn't apply because there isn't any security business.

Anyway several important banks will ignore these features of the law at least for a time. They will make gestures of compliance toward limiting the number of directors by getting the resignations of lawyers and inactive members.

Lawyers don't have to be directors in order to make their advice count.

The banks which will indulge in this "nullification" obtained the tacit approval of high Federal Reserve authorities before they decide to act.

capital structures modified, complicated holding companies abolished, and a new system of rate control installed. Those who hold this view believe the utilities would be wiser to start voluntary action along these lines instead of putting on a last-ditch act. But there aren't enough of them yet to count.

LIQUOR

Some of the New York retail stores are still grossing around $30,000 a day in their liquor departments.

But earmarks of a first-class scandal are developing. Beverages with foreign labels bought from licensed dealers sometimes prove on examination to be of domestic origin and sub-bootleg standard.

ARMS

In order to reassure the French Republic—which is extremely nervous over continued revelations of German war preparations—French authorities will soon permit news to "leak out" about the latest additions to their own military equipment.

The first is a new airplane bomb. When it strikes an object it develops a heat of 4,000 degrees Fahrenheit and cannot be extinguished by any chemical for four hours. The bomb weighs only three pounds and an airplane can carry several thousand.

The second device is an airplane constructed secretly by Breguet which can carry 20,000 pounds of bombs in addition to a crew of 12 and two full-size rapid-fire guns—at a cruising speed of 225 miles per hour. Two hundred of these planes should be in service by next summer.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH IN YULE SERVICE

FULLERTON, Dec. 25.—Varied programs were presented at Fullerton churches Sunday. At the Christian church, decorated in beautiful Christmas emblems, the vesper service at 5 p.m. took the place of the usual service of worship, and at the conclusion, at 6 p.m., a church wedding was solemnized.

The vesper service included congregational singing. Organ numbers were presented by Charles Peckham and Mrs. Charles Peckham played the piano for the occasion.

Dr. W. H. Wickett presented the scripture reading and Dorothy Schryock and Lois King presented a duet, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Mrs. L. E. Berkey, K. P. Slier, Mrs. W. L. Hottel, S. D. Lingo, Mrs. T. K. Gowen and F. H. Bezona directed an "Evening Time for Prayer" and with a short meditation, "The Meaning of Christmas," by the pastor, the Rev. George F. Tinsley, and congregational singing, the program closed.

The pastor at the reception were the parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. J. Cris Jensen and Mary M. Merlan, of Colton; Mrs. J. B. McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDowell, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Will Moore, Mr. and Mrs. George Boyer, Mrs. Claudia Boyer and Miss Fay Bortz, of Orange.

The junior department presented a group of songs, "Out on the Hills" and "Wise Men from Afar" and the lad who played Tiny Tim made a request for gifts for the needy.

After a closing prayer, the pastor, the Rev. Graham C. Hunter, pronounced the benediction.

The cast of the play included Bobby Ramsey, "Tiny Tim"; Gordon Allen, "Scrooge"; Horton Sherwood, "Babu Cratchit"; Bette Lee Williamson, "Martha"; Cliff Fowler, "Peter"; Alfred Fuller, "Fred"; Lyman Schell, Jr., "Richard"; Martha McMaster, "Bellinda"; Jimmy Davy and Lois Hollingsworth, two beggars, "Roger" and "Tom"; Sally Umack, spirit; Stewart Hunter, newsboy; prologue by Robert Davy and the introduction by Harry McGraw.

SAYS PEOPLE MUST ADOPT TEACHINGS OF PRINCE OF PEACE TO ERADICATE WAR

JOHN M. HUGHES' FUNERAL TUESDAY

FULLERTON, Dec. 25.—The only hope of eradicating the evil of war is for those who know the Prince of Peace to adopt His peace and teachings, the Rev. Seth Rehkop, pastor of the Fullerton Church of Christ, told his church members at the service Sunday morning. He said in part:

"As we look back over our anniversaries, those of our own lives, we can say we have been strengthened, have grown in knowledge of our Lord. Have we needed the admonition of our Lord, Jesus Christ, and been close to Him?"

"If we ponder those things we forget temporal things of earth and reckon on four great things: first, we do not become disengaged because life is hard, full of toil and poverty; so was the Master's; second, we learn self-denial if life seems blank, and you feel you amount to nothing, remember Jesus spent nine-tenths of His life in obscurity and toll; take courage, and while waiting for accomplishments something, take root downward, to the deep wells of spiritual things.

REVERSE

Republican strategy has been pretty well reversed in the last few days.

That's why you saw those stories quoting G. O. P. leaders in both houses of Congress as promising to go along with the Roosevelt administration on fundamental policies of relief and recovery.

All the stories mean is that the Republicans have decided to pull into their shells for a while longer.

The opposition generals figure F. D. R. is still too popular with the people for them to get away with any open offensive.

During the next couple of months the Republicans will be using periscopes and shooting around corners.

But don't get the idea their opposing publicity won't be smacking home every day. It simply will be concealed and appear publicly (if you can get around that paradox) as emanating from this society and that league.

It is once again our pleasure to wish you all a very Merry

Christmas and a Happy

New Year

IRMA M'DANEL BECOMES BRIDE OF W. C. PETERS

FULLERTON, Dec. 25.—At the close of the vesper service at the Fullerton Christian church Sunday night, Miss Irma McDanel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McDanel, of 207 North Yale, became the bride of Wallace C. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Peters, of Colton.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. George F. Tinsley, read the single ring ceremony before a large group of guests.

Miss McDanel, gowned in a white crepe, and carrying a lovely bride's bouquet, was attended by a maid of honor and three bridesmaids.

Her attendants were gowned in organdy and were Miss Mary Margaret Merlan, of Colton, wearing pink; Miss Beverly Baxter, Fullerton, wearing orchid; and Miss Marjorie McDanel, wearing pink, all organdy, while the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Peters, a sister of the bride, was dressed in a lovely gown of yellow taffeta.

Miss Marjorie McDanel, a bridesmaid, and little Betty Jo McDanel, dressed in pink organdy, the flower girls, are sisters of the bride.

The Brett Devony, Santa Maria, was best man. Other attendants were Bob Ward and Frank Ward, of Sierra Madre and Irvin Chestnut, of Fullerton.

Miss Myrtle Klahn played the wedding march and for Mrs. Leah McDanel Hughes, of Orange, who sang preceding the ceremony "Promise Me."

Following the wedding, supper was served to the guests by the bride's mother, with Mrs. Cecil Baxter and Miss Fay Bortz assisting.

The bride graduated from the Fullerton Union High school in 1933. The bridegroom graduated from Colton high school, from Santa Maria Junior college and from San Bernardino business college. He is the proprietor of a bakery in Santa Ana. The young couple will reside in Santa Ana after a short trip.

Guests at the reception were the parents of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. J. Cris Jensen and Mary M. Merlan, of Colton; Mrs. J. B. McDanel, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDanel, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Will Moore, Mr. and Mrs. George Boyer, Mrs. Claudia Boyer and Miss Fay Bortz, of Orange.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Ward, Mrs. Grace Tailey, Jackie Ward, Bob Ward and Frank Ward of Sierra Madre; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones and daughter, Thoris, of Los Angeles; Mr. Marion Hunton, of Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hunter, of Santa Ana; J. Smith, of Puebla; Mrs. Celia Baxter and son, Donald; Miss Mary Elizabeth Quigley, Miss Myrtle Klahn, Miss Beverly Baxter, Miss Eleanor Steadman, Mr. and Mrs.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY KING

When Santa Claus was out of sight, wee Duncy yelled, with all his might, "Gee, now's our chance to take a nap. My bones are 'bout to crack."

"I've worked so hard I'm all tired out. Some sleep will do us good, no doubt. One of the elves can wake us up, when Santa Claus comes back."

"Then we all will be rested. Gee, do you know that he promised me he'd tell us all about his ride? Won't that be heaps of fun?"

Then to an elf he turned and said, "Can you find each of us a bed?" "You bet I can," the elf replied. "No sooner said than done!"

Then to a little house they tore, to find fine little cots galore. "Plop down," exclaimed the elf, "and take a trip to slumberland."

"When Santa sails back into view, I'll be here to awaken you. I don't have an alarm clock, so I'll shout to beat the band."

They had a restful sleep and then the elf rushed to the house again and shouted, "Get up, Tinymites. O! Santa is outside."

Before they had a chance to jump up to their feet, they heard a thump, and in walked kind old Santa. "Hi, there, Tinymites," he cried.

And then he told them 'bout his trip, and not one movement did he skip. When he had finished, Dotty said, "You've given folks a treat."

The kind old man said, "I hope so. Now, follow me, and we will go right to my private dining room to find some food to eat."

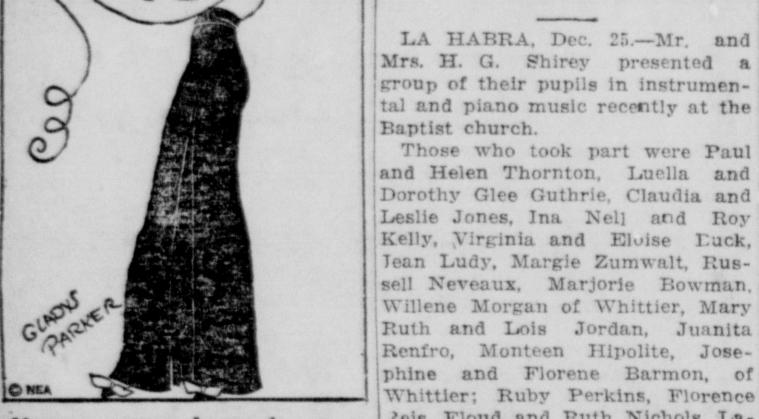

It wasn't very long until wee Stumpy shouted, "What a thrill. Just look at Santa's table. There's a turkey. My, how fine!"

Then Santa said, "It's nice and warm. Come on, you Tinymites, sit down. I'll give each one of you a share, and then I'll carve off mine."

PARTIES HELD BY MEMBERS OF EASTERN STAR

SMELTZER, Dec. 25.—The ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pyle was the gathering place for members of the Eastern Star order during the past week, three social affairs being held.

At a turkey dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Pyle acted as hosts, 1928 matrons and their husbands were honored. Mrs. Pyle, who was deputy grand matron of Orange county in 1928, used the Christmas decorations effectively in the table decorations, a daintily trimmed Christmas tree being used as the center piece. Court whist entertained after dinner and prizes were awarded with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Larson and Mr. and Mrs. William Sylvester receiving gifts, while the guest prize went to Miss Mary Kettler.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lee, Mr. and Mrs. James Tarpley, Mr. and Mrs. William Sylvester, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Holland, Mrs. Clara Handley, Mrs. Rosalie Williams, Miss Thelma Williams, Miss Mary Kettler, Mrs. Elenor Pickel and the hosts.

Past matrons of the Seaside chapter of the Eastern Star met for the purpose of forming a new Past Matrons' association. Mrs. Pyle was chosen president of the new organization, with Mrs. Lena Heaston as secretary and treasurer and it was voted to hold the next meeting at the home of Mrs. Blanche James in Midway City.

The hostess served tempting refreshments to the following: Mrs. Alice Hare, Mrs. Mame Schut, Mrs. Bertha Warner, Mrs. Blanche James, Mrs. Lena Heaston and Mrs. Marion Conrad.

On Friday the third of the lodge affairs was a Christmas party of the O. E. S. Starlight club, with Mrs. Lena Heaston and Mrs. Gusse Kettler as co-hostesses. This was a hit-jinks affair and all present were attired in costume, with Mrs. Zeisler of Huntington Beach taking the prize for the best. Pot luck luncheon was served at noon, with Christmas appointments featured at the table.

The regular business meeting of the club was held in the afternoon with election of officers giving the presidency to Mrs. Martha Pickering and the secretary and treasurer to Mrs. Mayme Schut.

Guests included Marion Conrad, Clare Blume, Dora Radford, Jessie Todd, Adelaide M. Barry, Nell Trumphy, Jeanne McAdam, Margaret Walters, Martha Pickering, Eddie Teague, Hazel Paquette, Blanche James, Bertha Warner, Alice McBeth, Ethel Schafer, Gussie Kettler, Verde Rimmel, Eva Wright, Mary Harpole, Marguerite Eakin, Lois Robb, Alma Shores, Lena Heaston, Mayme Schut, Katherine Conrad, Mary Ziegler and Elenore Lemert.

State To Direct Construction Of School Building

WESTMINSTER, Dec. 25.—Word of the final approval of school plans is expected daily from Sacramento by the local school board as the government approval has been received and the plans sent north by the architects. A contract with the state board of public building reconstruction has been signed, the contract calling for payment over a period of 11 years, with the first to be in the 1934-35 school year.

The agreement calls for the state to build within the allotted

TOURING TOPIC
SERIES TO BE ENDED TONIGHT

The last broadcast of "Touring Topics of the Air" tonight at 7 o'clock, KREG, will present the second chapter in the series "Pioneers of the Western Frontier." Joseph Chapman, the first American to settle in Los Angeles and whose life was colored with many historical events.

Brief descriptions of three desert animals: the chuckwalla, the Gila monster and the desert tortoise, will be given. The broadcast will also include suggestions for trips to Boulder Dam; the right-of-way on mountain roads; rights of pedestrians; the seven mountains in California which rise over 14,000 feet above sea-level; traffic rules and recent court decisions regarding boulevard stops, and other notes.

The broadcast was prepared by G. V. Winnie of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

KREG NOTES

A special most important and most interesting announcement will be made for women and misses of Orange county tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 during "Sorority Shop Syncopations" on KREG. Every lady will be more than glad that she tuned in because it's going to be something big!

The new radio, brought by Santa Claus, may be tuned to 1500 kilocycles this morning at 9 o'clock for a Christmas morning broadcast by Cal-Baden. The program will comprise carols and classics only, and will consist entirely of music.

And speaking of radios: If yours is not operating at its highest efficiency and you would like to ask some questions about it before you call the service man, send your questions to KREG and they will be answered by a member of the technical staff in a broadcast at a time to be announced in a short time. If a personal answer is desired, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. There will be no charge for this service.

A 15-minute program of Christmas classics will be broadcast from KREG at 5 o'clock this evening, a presentation of the Santa Ana Council Executive Board P.T.A.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

"Hansel and Gretel," Humperdinck's popular fairy tale opera, will be broadcast direct from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City over combined networks of the NBC including KFI between 12 and 2 today.

Ten European nations will exchange Christmas greetings with the United States through the facilities of the Columbia network including KHJ today from 1 to 1:30. New York City, speaking for the United States, will send America's greeting to the old world. Both verbal and musical salutations will be exchanged. England, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy, Sweden, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Holland will be the European countries to send Yuletide expressions to the United States during the international broadcast.

A Christmas Day program from Honolulu will be picked up by short wave in the United States and transmitted across the continent by the National Broadcasting company including KFI from 3:30 to 3:45 today. The Yuletide offering from the Paradise of the Pacific will include a Christmas greeting by Mayor Wright of Honolulu and appropriate numbers by the Royal Hawaiian Band, directed by Frank Vierra.

"Hodie Christus Natus Est," by Jan Pieter Sweelinck, 16th Century Dutch organist and teacher, whose organ works are considered of great historical interest, will be included on Father Finn's program of Choral Music to be presented over an NBC transcontinental network including KPO at 5:30 this evening.

Christmas music from the works of Handel will be played during the Philadelphia Orchestra's concert, under the direction of Leopold Stokowski. It will be broadcast over KHJ tonight from 6 to 6:15.

"Deck the Halls," an old Welsh air, will introduce the program of favorite Christmas songs and carols to be presented by Isabel Zehr, the Contented Quartet and Morgan L. Eastman's orchestra during the broadcast at 7 tonight over KFI.

In keeping with the spirit of Christmas, Lawrence Tibbett has chosen the traditional "Silent Night" for his initial solo on the program at 8:30 tonight over KFI.

Professor Charles Fredrick Lindsey again brings "The Little Mixer," Christmas story which breathes tolerance and idealism to listeners of KHJ at 9 tonight.

"The Last Santa Claus," a Christmas play especially written for the NBC Drama Hour by Barbara Jo Allen, one of the leading members of the National Players, will be heard over KPO from 9 to 9:30 tonight.

A "Pageant of Christmas," with Yuletide scenes from the present back to the first Christmas and embodying many novel features of interest and information, will be presented over an NBC transcontinental network including KPO from 10:30 to 11 today.

MANY SPECIAL FEATURES OVER LOCAL STATION

Nine C. B. C. broadcasts from KREG this afternoon and evening will offer a variety of entertainment including symphonic orchestrations, organ music, frolics, popular dance music and instrumental classics.

A shining light of Christmas Day programs will be that of "Melody Masters" at 8:30 tonight. Adele Crane, Jan Rubin and Salvadore Santalla are undoubtedly making musical history with series of presentations and their admirers will be particularly pleased to hear Miss Crane sing "Silent Night, Holy Night," and Mr. Rubin playing his own special arrangement of "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

C. Sharpe Minor, at the console of the organ, and Lois Deering at the piano, 10:15 tonight, will offer more Christmas melodies as Christmas Day nears its close.

WE CONTINUE OUR STORY—OUR HEROES ARE ON THEIR WAY HOME AFTER CATCHING BIFF AND RECOVERING THE WIDOW SHULTZ' BONDS AND MONEY.

WELL, WELL, GIVE THE OLD BUS SOME GAS, AND GET A BITE TO EAT. YOU'VE BEEN TALKING ABOUT FOOD EVER SINCE WE LEFT... ON ACCOUNT OF THIS FOOL WIDOW I'M MISSING MOST OF MY CHRISTMAS WITH MY FAMILY.

I WAS JUST GETTIN' READY TO SICK THAT GUY. BITT, WHEN YOU GAVE IT TO HIM—THAT ONE WALLOP TOOK ALL THE SMART GAB OUTTA HIM.

HELLO, FELLER—WHERE DID YOU LOSE THE TAIL OF YOUR COAT AND GET THAT SUM LAMP—SANTA CLAUS BEEN TOUGH WITH YOU?

NO, I WAS HELD UP—TWO FELLOWS IN AN OPEN CAR—ONE DRESSED LIKE A POLICEMAN PICKED ME UP AT FREELAND CORNERS AND TOOK ME FOR A RIDE—ROBBED ME OF MY BONDS AND MONEY.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

As we are writing this editorial to go in the paper on Christmas morning, we are happy because we feel that there is so much greater joy in our country today than there was a year ago.

We have just come from the theater, where hundreds of children were in attendance, and they had all brought Christmas packages for admission, to be distributed to those needier than themselves.

We were happy as we left, for we knew that with the organized charities, with the Civil Works Administration, and with the added work generally, that these contributions for admission, operating through the Salvation Army, would furnish those homes with needs and with toys that were not aided in any other way.

We feel confident that there must be very few people in Santa Ana and Orange county today, who are not enjoying a very Merry Christmas, and some of them, compared with a year ago, and two years ago, a marvelous day.

We have seen conditions develop, it seems to us, for the better in many ways, so that our faith is greater in human nature, and in Divine leadership, than it has been for many months.

The spirit that found its birth in the cradle of Bethlehem is pervading the world, we believe, more at this time than it was 10 years ago.

While it may be possible that there is not the emphasis today being placed upon the personal virtues, or what we may speak of as "the evangelistic or emotional type of religious thought," the social teachings and aspects of the life of the "Prophet of Nazareth" mean much more today in America and in the world than they have in any other hour of the Christian era.

As we are reaching more deeply into the nature of an organic union, in a social program of justice as well as love, we are finding that the teachings of all cults come together more closely.

At this point Judaism and Christianity stand on common ground with mutual understanding, with mutual inspiration and hope.

The Chief Executive of the nation, standing before the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America a few days ago, delivered, in our mind, a wonderful Christmas message, because it was a message that "good will," to be vital and intelligent, must affect not only our individual heart, but our relationship to society, and the rules which society lays down for the conduct of our mutual enterprise.

Christmas has a larger message today to us, and we believe to all thinking people, than it has ever had before.

For in the light of the application of the teachings which come from Him Who grew to manhood from the manger, we are beginning to see that there is not only the obligation upon us to give and to share with him who is in need, but that we may be, in a very real sense, responsible for the condition of the man who is in need, because of the unjust legislation and unjust conditions which we have possibly enacted, and very probably have at least permitted without a protest.

The conditions which seem to have forced many to have committed crimes of avarice may be traced, if we analyze it clearly, to our indifference, if not our activity.

The problem of dealing with the unfortunate, along any line of life today, involves very clearly to thinking men and women, the problem of how to remove the temptations from them at the beginning.

The terrific terror of a world war, with the millions of dead, and the many more millions of injured, the disastrous aftermath in the nations of the earth, climaxing in a tremendous depression, that has brought poverty and sorrow and suffering to hundreds of millions, may be the only way that we could be made to understand that the spiritual, the noble, the holy, must find their expression through the lives of individuals and nations in a vital, practical and comprehensive way, or civilization must disappear.

It was a terrible thing that we should have to be taught that way, but could we have learned in any other?

But let us keep that lesson uppermost!

Let us almost dare to hope that prosperity shall not return too speedily, if by returning we shall lose the effect of our lessons, for in the midst of it all how helpless we have been—how ignorant have appeared our wise men, how utterly dependent we finally have had to become upon principles in which some of us never believed!

So now let us not become haughty or self-confident or proud, but walk in the spirit of the Nazarene, with love, in the spirit of sacrifice and humility, with a faith in the Brotherhood of Men and the Fatherhood of God! Thus Christmas may mean more to us with each passing year.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE RECOVERY PROGRAM

Virgil Jordan, President of the Industrial conference board, made an address recently before a group of people committed to adult education, analyzing the content and the significance of the administration's recovery plan. His opening sentence was the quotation from a speech by our own Senator Johnson when he said: "Go with Roosevelt or go to hell."

Mr. Jordan is not altogether in sympathy with the President. He believes that his plan will not accomplish what is hoped for. But, commenting on the hands-off policy of the preceding administration, he said that the American people in the last election voted strongly and loudly for doing something, even though it should be the wrong thing. Anything, he said, was better than doing nothing. So long as the country is in that mood, he said, there is nothing else to do but the thing that the President is doing, and all of us as well go along with him until the plan fails.

This is a philosophic attitude. It is the only attitude to take in the present emergency; and we admire Mr. Jordan's willingness to look at the situation in a practical way. Incidentally, he scored the industrialists and the bankers of the country for their dumbness in not recognizing the exact situation. They were crying out against the money policy of the administration, he said, forgetting that the regimentation involved in the recovery plan strikes at their interests very much more directly than does the value of the dollar.

Mr. Jordan has always been a clear-sighted economist. As the former editor of the Business Week he was constantly out of step with his brethren in industry and finance. He clearly saw what their tactics and schemes were leading to, and he warned them in vain. The famous remark of Edmund Burke, speaking in Parliament on the conciliation of the revolting American colonies, was used in timely fashion by Mr. Jordan—"You cannot bring an indictment against a whole people." The people of the United States spoke in the last election, and the wise man will listen.

Origin of Famous Poem Obscure

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Nobody—except perhaps the omniscient Mr. S. Claus—knows for sure who wrote the famous children's poem beginning: "Twas the night before Christmas . . ."

That may be news to the millions of people, of numerous generations, who always have supposed that the author was Dr. Clement Clarke Moore. The bibliographies, encyclopedias, histories and copies of the poem itself all give that name. So do the markers which show where the spacious and many chimneied Moore house stood on West Twenty-third street in the old Chelsea district. Every Christmas Eve, too, a lot of children gather in the courtyard of the huge apartment development which now occupies the site of the Moore estate to sing carols and recite the poem in tribute to the memory of that notable scholar and somewhat less distinguished poet.

The family of Dr. William S. Thomas, however, will tell you that all this Clement Moore business is a mistake. It is their contention, backed by a family legend more than a hundred years old, that Dr. Thomas' great-grandfather, one Henry Livingston, Jr., wrote the poem himself.

They believed he composed it in his home near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a few days before the Christmas of 1822, read it at the breakfast table the next morning, and gave a copy to a house guest who later showed it to Dr. Moore.

Scholar and a Poet

The facts on both sides of the case are meager but interesting. Dr. Moore himself was of unimpeachable character and couldn't be accused by anyone of intentionally appropriating someone else's verse. His father was the Episcopal Bishop of New York who assisted at the inauguration of George Washington and administered the last rites to Alexander Hamilton. Clement Moore was a great scholar, but didn't go in much for whimsy. For example, his principal work was "A Compendious Lexicon of the Hebrew Language." Another bit that he dashed off was "Observations Upon Certain Passages in Mr. Jefferson's Note on the State of Virginia Which Appear to Have a Tendency to Subvert Religion and Establish a False Philosophy."

Dr. Moore did write verses. He published a volume of them in 1844, and "A Visit From St. Nicholas"—the original title of the disputed poem—was included. Incidentally, it was by all odds the best of the lot, and there was only one other poem in the book which was done in the same metre.

Henry Livingston had been dead ten years when the volume was published, and his family evidently made no strenuous protest against Moore's claim of authorship. Moore, on the other hand, seems to have offered no further proof. He lived to be well past 80, died in 1863, and was buried in the cemetery behind the Chapel of the Intercession at One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street and Broadway. His grave is still a Christmas Eve shrine for sentimentalists who go there and sing carols.

Mr. Livingston seems to have just as unimpeachable a reputation as Dr. Moore. He was a statesman, a soldier and an author. And he also wrote book of poems. "Twas the Night Before Christmas" was not among them, but the family legend contains an explanation for its absence. The minority faction in the literary field also claims that many of the Christmas poem's phrasings and tricks of expression are used in the book. And it is a fact that nearly half of the verses are in the same meter.

The most baffling part of the whole mystery is that the poem first was published anonymously in a newspaper, the Troy Sentinel, in 1823. Mr. Livingston was a reader of that paper. The editor put in a little note saying it was a fine piece of work but he didn't know who had submitted it. Neither Moore nor Livingston claimed authorship at that time, and neither left any writings mentioning it. The original manuscript, should it ever turn up, would be almost priceless. It also would settle an ancient argument.

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Pape

(Copyright, 1933, by Lee Pape)

My sister Gladys bawled little Willie around Sunday and made him start to tell her how she is teaching me money management out of Professor Janders book, saying, Professor Janders lays particular stress on the importance of the child giving to others in some way a certain proportion of his daily budget, thus learning the value of unselfishness along with the value of earning, saving and judicious spending, and I think this would be an excellent time for Benny to have his first object lesson. Now Benny suppose you freely and ungrudgingly give me one cent of today's 5 to little Willie, she said.

I think that one thing ought to be done there and then. Each of the children should write a note of thanks for the gifts he has received from friends and relatives outside the home group. It ought to be a first duty to thank the one who took so much trouble and gave such loving thought in the service of the happy recipient. Christmas was made richer for him by this affectionate gesture and it is his plain duty to acknowledge his debt and do his best to balance it with some kind of appreciative response.

Children don't like the job.

They will dislike the thought of it less at this time on Christmas Day than they will this time the day after.

The longer they delay the worse they hate to begin.

Get it over with bright and early. Sandwich it in between dinner and tea time. Supply the paper and the pen, or pencil, and the ideas if necessary. Licking the stamp and sticking it in place brings the children a feeling of duty well done and they go into the rest of the festivities with renewed zest.

Children ought to be granted a stay for bedtime on this high occasion but they usually are tired before that time. Christmas morning usually awakens them very early and the games and the gifts and the party dinner makes severe drains upon their energy. If the younger ones can be persuaded to take a nap, or a rest in a quiet room, they will be in better temper and form for the evening. If they don't get that rest they will have to go to bed even earlier than usual and that makes it hard for everybody.

The evening ought to be full of fun for old and young. Games and dancing and hilarious treasure hunts that end in funny finds for everybody go to make this evening the memorable one it always is for the family. It isn't the evening for strangers. If one has to entertain formally, or even semi-formally, the children will be uneasy, and the evening spoiled for them, and likely for you too. Give the Christmas celebration over to the home folks.

With I wasn't till I took Willie out for a walk and argued into buying a marshmallow bar with the cent just to prove he was a good sport.

Elaborately decorated and lighted with strings of bright globes, the monster Christmas tree which Santa Ana Elks had erected for children of the city, had drawn a crowd of 1500 children the previous afternoon when the annual party was held. Each child received candy and a toy from Santa Claus (Sam Burke) and a Punch and Judy show was popular entertainment.

Fullerton parties had secured a lease on a 45-acre tract of land adjoining the Standard Oil lease at Huntington Beach, presumably for eastern capitalists. The lease called for the commencement of drilling operations within a six months period. The Standard Oil company had broken ground for its first well on the Huntington Beach mesa.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

As we are writing this editorial to go in the paper on Christmas morning, we are happy because we feel that there is so much greater joy in our country today than there was a year ago.

We have just come from the theater, where hundreds of children were in attendance, and they had all brought Christmas packages for admission, to be distributed to those needier than themselves.

We were happy as we left, for we knew that with the organized charities, with the Civil Works Administration, and with the added work generally, that these contributions for admission, operating through the Salvation Army, would furnish those homes with needs and with toys that were not aided in any other way.

We feel confident that there must be very few people in Santa Ana and Orange county today, who are not enjoying a very Merry Christmas, and some of them, compared with a year ago, and two years ago, a marvelous day.

We have seen conditions develop, it seems to us, for the better in many ways, so that our faith is greater in human nature, and in Divine leadership, than it has been for many months. The spirit that found its birth in the cradle of Bethlehem is pervading the world, we believe, more at this time than it was 10 years ago.

While it may be possible that there is not the emphasis today being placed upon the personal virtues, or what we may speak of as "the evangelistic or emotional type of religious thought," the social teachings and aspects of the life of the "Prophet of Nazareth" mean much more today in America and in the world than they have in any other hour of the Christian era.

As we are reaching more deeply into the nature of an organic union, in a social program of justice as well as love, we are finding that the teachings of all cults come together more closely.

At this point Judaism and Christianity stand on common ground with mutual understanding, with mutual inspiration and hope.

The Chief Executive of the nation, standing before the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America a few days ago, delivered, in our mind, a wonderful Christmas message, because it was a message that "good will," to be vital and intelligent, must affect not only our individual heart, but our relationship to society, and the rules which society lays down for the conduct of our mutual enterprise.

Christmas has a larger message today to us, and we believe to all thinking people, than it has ever had before.

For in the light of the application of the teachings which come from Him Who grew to manhood from the manger, we are beginning to see that there is not only the obligation upon us to give and to share with him who is in need, but that we may be, in a very real sense, responsible for the condition of the man who is in need, because of the unjust legislation and unjust conditions which we have possibly enacted, and very probably have at least permitted without a protest.

The conditions which seem to have forced many to have committed crimes of avarice may be traced, if we analyze it clearly, to our indifference, if not our activity.

The problem of dealing with the unfortunate, along any line of life today, involves very clearly to thinking men and women, the problem of how to remove the temptations from them at the beginning.

The terrific terror of a world war, with the millions of dead, and the many more millions of injured, the disastrous aftermath in the nations of the earth, climaxing in a tremendous depression, that has brought poverty and sorrow and suffering to hundreds of millions, may be the only way that we could be made to understand that the spiritual, the noble, the holy, must find their expression through the lives of individuals and nations in a vital, practical and comprehensive way, or civilization must disappear.

It was a terrible thing that we should have to be taught that way, but could we have learned in any other?

But let us keep that lesson uppermost! Let us almost dare to hope that prosperity shall not return too speedily, if by returning we shall lose the effect of our lessons, for in the midst of all how helpless we have been, —how ignorant have appeared our wise men, —how utterly dependent we finally have had to become upon principles in which some of us never believed!

So now let us not become haughty or self-confident or proud, but walk in the spirit of the Nazarene, with love, in the spirit of sacrifice, and humbly, with a faith in the Brotherhood of Men and the Fatherhood of God! Thus Christmas may mean more to us with each passing year.

AN ANALYSIS OF THE RECOVERY PROGRAM

Virgil Jordan, President of the Industrial conference board, made an address recently before a group of people committed to adult education, analyzing the content and the significance of the administration's recovery plan. His opening sentence was the quotation from a speech by our own Senator Johnson when he said: "Go with Roosevelt or go to hell."

Mr. Jordan is not altogether in sympathy with the President. He believes that his plan will not accomplish what is hoped for. But, commenting on the hands-off policy of the preceding administration, he said that the American people in the last election voted strongly and loudly for doing something, even though it should be the wrong thing. Anything, he said, was better than doing nothing. So long as the country is in that mood, he said, there is nothing else to do but the thing that the President is doing, and all of us may as well go along with him until the plan fails.

This is a philosophic attitude. It is the only attitude to take in the present emergency; and we admire Mr. Jordan's willingness to look at the situation in a practical way. Incidentally, he scored the industrialists and the bankers of the country for their dumbness in not recognizing the exact situation. They were crying out against the money policy of the administration, he said, forgetting that the regimentation involved in the recovery plan strikes at their interests very much more directly than does the value of the dollar.

Mr. Jordan has always been a clear-sighted economist. As the former editor of the Business Week he was constantly out of step with his brethren in industry and finance. He clearly saw what their tactics and schemes were leading to, and he warned them in vain. The famous remark of Edmund Burke, speaking in Parliament on the conciliation of the revolting American colonies, was used in timely fashion by Mr. Jordan.—"You cannot bring an indictment against a whole people." The people of the United States spoke in the last election,
